The Union Steamship Company's Rotorua (s.), Captain J. Tozer, from Auckland and other New Zealand ports, arrived in harbour yesterday morning at 4 o'clock. She left Dunedin at 4 p.m. on the 16th instant; reached Lyttelton at 2 p.m. on the 17th; remained there till 2 p.m. on the 18th; arrived at Wellington at 8 a.m. on the 19th; sailed same day at 4 p.m.; called at Napier on the 20th, Gisborne on the 21st, and reached Auckland at 1 p.m. on the 22nd; left there at 10 p.m. on the 23rd, called at Mangonui on the 24th; coaled, and sailed again at 5 p.m. Had light easterly winds for the first 24 hours; afterwards a continuation of strong westerly gales till arrival.

The N.I.S.N. Company's (s.) Graaf Van Bylandt arrived at Port Darwin on Monday, June 28, and sails for Sydney on Saturday, July 3.

The ship Zen Elene arrived at Lyttelton, from London, on June 9. She left Gravesend on the 6th of March, and the passage was uneventful till the 2nd of May, when she experienced a terrific south-west gale, accompanied with a very heavy sea; a low barometer; and the gale increased to a hurricane; and the terrific squalls striking the vessel, carried away several sails, and started the bulwarks. The barometer fell to 28·40. The ship was hove-to, and lurching heavily, started the heel of the spanker-boom, and before it was secured made a complete wreck of the poop, smashing the skylight, binnacle, wheel, and steering gear, carrying away the after shrouds of the starboard rigging, and starting the deck planking. Five of the crew were rendered unfit for work through exhaustion, and remained so till arrival here. The gale gave out on the 13th. Had variable winds to June 3, when the ship had another gale from the south-west, with thick weather. The vessel was hove-to, and just as she got her head to the wind the sources were sight ed, two miles on the lee bow. When she got round she was barely three-quarters of a mile from the shore. Set a press of canvas to drag her off the shore, but all of it blew away. Managed to work the ship off with difficulty, and the gale moderated.

The Union S. S. Co.'s steamer, Rotorua, which was advertised to leave to-day for Auckland and other New Zealand ports, will not sail till Friday at 5 p.m.

The E. and A. Mail Company's steamer Brisbane came out of dock yesterday morning, and has been placed alongside Smith's Wharf. The ship has been thoroughly painted, and will sail on the 9th instant for Hongkong, via Port Darwin, and Singapore.

The City of Melbourne (s.) left Noumea on Saturday, June 26, at 5.30 p.m., and arrived at the A. S. N. Company's Wharf, Sydney, at 11.30 last night.

The Airlie, ship, was removed from Smith's Wharf yesterday morning to the western side of the Circular Quay, for the purpose of putting out some locomotives for the Government of this colony. The sight of a ship alongside the Circular Quay is a novelty, as it is some months since a ship patronized our most central wharf for the purpose of landing a London freight.

The Norfolk (s.), is putting out cargo rapidly on the western side of the Circular Quay, and has again given the locality the business-like appearance that it once possessed.

It will be seen from our Queenscliff correspondent's telegram that the Liguria, Ly-e-moon, and Assam steamers, all left yesterday afternoon for Sydney.

A telegram dated Lyttleton, June 21, says:—The Clematis was rather severely injured by collision with the Rotorua (s.), and had she been struck a little further forward would have been sunk. The master throws the blame on the Rotorua, but were that the captain of the steamer told him it was his own fault—he should have got out of his way.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

A falling off in the number of sales reported in the Stock and Share markets was noticeable to-day. Bank shares were firm at late rates. City had buyers at 111½, sellers at 111¾; Commercial (fully paid) wanted at 98½, offered at 100, new issue for sale at 76½; inquiry for Joint Stock at 15⅞, holders wanted 15¾; Mercantile were the same as yesterday, buyers at 5¾, sellers at 6, sales at 5¾; New South Wales stronger, 51 paid and offered, 51½ asked: New Zealand steady, buyers at 20, sellers at 20½: Oriental not offered, buyers at 24; for Queensland National, 67½ was refused, 74 asked; Union salable at 60, held for 62. Steam shares steady: Australasian inquired for at 17½, sellers at 17¾; no demand for Clarence and Richmond old, 5¾ asked; Hunter River wanted at 7, and Illawarra at 5—no sellers of either; North Shore Ferry slightly better, 14s. 6d. declined, sellers at 15s. 6d. Insurance shares firmer: General not quoted; Australian and Sydney Fire not offered; City were dearer, buyers at 1s. 1d., sellers at 1s. 6d.; Mercantile salable at 1s. 4d., held for 1s. 8d.; no inquiry for New South Wales, 62s. wanted, and the same for Pacific with buyers at 2s. less. Sydney Marine in request at 28s., holders quoted 32s. 6d.; United changed hands at 36s. 6d., and wanted at that, sellers at 39s. Fully-paid Gaslight could have been placed at 13¾, sellers at 13½; for new issue 4¾ was declined, 5⅛ asked. Buyers of Sydney Exchange at 9, sellers at 10. Pyrmont Bridge for sale at 6¾. Shale and Oil wanted at 10s., offered at 11s.; Volunteer landsorders for sale at 92. Coal shares quiet: Bulli had no demand, 18 asked; Wallsend salable at 18, and Waratah at 7, both held for £1 more, and Vale of Clwydd for 17s. Great Cobar Copper better, 56s. paid, and declined, 58s. wanted. Gold shares flat: Krohmann's and Star of Peace obtainable at 4s. 6d.; Band and Albion wanted at 4½, offered, at 4¾; Hustler's pups also unchanged. No transactions in debentures: the sale reported yesterday as N. S. W. should have been A. S. N.

The Import markets still maintain a dull tone, but there was a little more inquiry for goods to-day. Breadstuffs have a slow sale; best Adelaide flour is quoted at £11 to £11 (5s., other sorts at £9 15s. to £11. Seed oats in more demand; sales at 2s. to 2s. 3d. Candles, firm; a good-sized line of damaged Gouda's was sold at auction by Messrs. Fraser and Co., this morning, at 7½d.; also Star lobsters, all faults, at 7s., and the damaged portion of the Vidal's sugars at full values, considering condition. In Dundee goods we note a better inquiry for woolpacks, 3s. 1½d. paid for 50 bales of Calcuttas, to arrive, and a similar figure declined for a parcel on the spot. Caustic soda still scarce, and salable at extreme rates; £7 12s. 6d. paid for crystals. Liquors steady at late rates for trade lots of brandy; 9½s. paid for a line of Piper's champagne. Galvanized iron has settled at low values ranging from £24 10s. upwards. 10 tons of Nos. 8 and 10 fencing wire placed at £15 and £17, less would be accepted for a parcel. Kerosene is firm, 1s. 8d. paid for a line of Aurora brand. Auckland advices report that oils of all kinds are light in stock there, and full prices are expected to rule in kerosene for some time. Hops have an improving tendency; 2s. 4½d. obtained for a trade lot of new Kent. Salt is in demand on the spot and to arrive; £4 12s. 6d. obtained for a shipment not due here for some time; fine is firmer, and likely to go higher. The cablegrams received to-day respecting the outbreak of hostilities between Russia and China caused some stir amongst holders and importers of tea. Should the ports of the latter be blockaded it will greatly affect prices. There is no improvement to notice in the value of maize, prime shipping lots continue going off at 2s. The local produce market at Darling Harbour was very poorly supplied this morning, and the quality of the produce forward being generally good there was an increased competition, and some lines realized advances on late values. Oaten hay in trusses and bundles sold well at from 5s. to 5s. 8d. for prime, and from 4s. 3d. to 4s. 10d. for medium samples. Bale hay was not first-class, and ranged from 4s. 6d. to 5s. Oaten and wheaten hay in bales sold at from 4s. to 4s. 2d. Straw was slightly strong, and bright qualities in bundles brought up to 3s. 2d., bales averaging from 2s. 9d. to 3s. Chaff had a very poor sale. Best samples changed hands at 4s. 9d. to 5s. 1d., and medium at from 4s. to 4s. 6d., inferior going as low as 2s. 9d. Good potatoes were worth from 4s. to 4s. 3d.; medium samples, from 3s. to 3s. 9d. Pumpkins sold at from 1s. 6d. to 2s. per dozen, and a small parcel of maize in good order at 2s. 0½d. per bushel. Cheese is worth 4d. to 6d. Bacon, 4d. to 7d.

The supply of wool for to-day's sales was nominal, and afforded no test of the market. For sheepskins, there was active competition. Messrs. Mort and Co. disposed of a large quantity at 2d. to 4d., for pelts and short; 5d. to 5¼d. for medium, 6d. to 7d. for best. Mr. Bridge sold inferior at 2¾d. to 4½d; medium to best, at 5d. to 6½d.

The Colonial Treasurer modified the proposed coal duty so as to make it only payable on the quantity actually exported. The proposal for imposing an export duty of 6d. per ton on coal, was agreed to by the Assembly in Committee of the Whole, last night.

Messrs. Fraser and Co. will sell, to-morrow, Kauri pine, galvanized iron, &c.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman sold to-day, at their auction rooms, that block of city property known as portion of the Reiby Estate, including the old Admiral Inn, for many years used as the shipping office, and extending through to Pitt-street, along Reiby-lane, and also including the premises used by Mr. John Williams as a cooperage. Frontage to Macquarie-place, 51 feet; to Reiby-lane, 381 feet; and Pitt-street, 85 feet 6 inches; price, £14,000—Mr. J. E. Begg, purchaser.

The Government has decided to allow postage stamps to be used for duty stamps, and that any of the latter issued under the former Act can be used for the purposes of the new law.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—

Spirits, £1041 4s. 1d.; wine (still), £122 1s. 9d.; wine (sparkling), £33 18s. 2d.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottle), £8 12s. 2d.; cigars, £25 10s.; tea, £126 5s. 6d.; coffee and chicory, £8 8s.; sugar (unrefined), £50; dried fruits, £106 13s. 6d.; nuts, 12s.; specific duty, £543 17s. 11d.; pilotage, £17 7s. 8d.; harbour and light dues, £34 19s.; total, £2119 9s. 9d.

MINING.

KROHMANN'S AMALGAMATED G. M. Co.—Mining manager's reports:—"Hill End, June 26,—Perpendicular shaft has been sunk a further depth of 6 feet, making present depth 687 feet from surface. Shaft sinking will be stopped on Tuesday, when a cross-cut will be commenced west from shaft at 677 feet, to intersect the gold bearing quartz leaders that left the shaft at this point. North drive on new vein, at 628-feet level, has been extended 7 feet. Present length of drive 107 feet. Have broken down 1 ton of quartz from the vein at the end of drive, it is 7 inches thick, showing a little better gold than it has for some time. Underhand stoping same vein north and south of shaft, have not taken down any vein since crushing. Stoping-out on western vein at 210 and at 240-feet level; have raised 4 tons of quartz from this vein, it looks 2 oz. per ton. June 18.—Crushed 35 tons of quartz; yield 76 oz. 10 dwts. retorted gold. June 22.—Crushed 63 tons of quartz from new vein; yield, 49 oz. 6 dwts. retorted gold."

The Sydney Morning Herald.

THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1880.

In the Legislative Council, yesterday,

A message was received from the Governor, intimating that he had reserved the Church and School Lands Dedication Bill for her Majesty's assent.

Sir JOHN ROBERTSON informed Mr. Piddington that no decision had been arrived at in reference to the application to annex the police barrack to the Erysipelas Hospital at Parramatta; and Mr. Charles Campbell was also informed that the Government had taken no definite steps latterly in reference to the protection of the aborigines in certain districts.

The Volunteer Land Orders Bill was read a third time, and passed.

The Pastures and Stock Protection Bill was recommitted, and verbally amended.

Mr. CHARLES CAMPBELL moved the adjournment of the House, for the purpose of referring to the question of the protection of the aborigines. He considered that the Government should make more effort to have the aborigines better protected.

Sir JOHN ROBERTSON said that the matter might be fairly left in the hands of the Government. He admitted that all that might have been done for the blacks had not been done, and he regretted that none of the black children had been sent to the reformatory. We had a most liberal provision for the reformation of the children of the aboriginal population, and he thought the Government were not so much to be blamed as the hon. member would have the House believe.

programme, which places the financial power in one House exclusively. The only scheme consistent with the principle of a popularly elected Senate is to allow the Upper House to have a reasonable amount of financial control, and then to provide for cases of dead-lock. With all its faults, however, Mr. BERRY's last Constitution is the best which he has yet produced—which shows that he is still learning. But Mr. SERVICE's scheme for constructing the Council is the better of the two, while his plan also provides for getting rid of dead-locks very quickly. Mr. BERRY has, however, narrowed the distance between the two parties, and in so doing has justified the electors for giving Mr. SERVICE a majority at the last election, and has practically encouraged them to do the same thing again. If Mr. SERVICE gains the day, we know that his new bill will be pretty close to his old one; but if Mr. BERRY wins, we have no certainty that he will not produce a fifth Constitution. In voting for Mr. SERVICE, therefore, the electors know what they are about; but in voting for Mr. BERRY, they commit themselves to the unknown.

Despite the scantiness of details, there is a world of significance in the telegraphed intelligence which we publish to-day, that the troops of a European Power have been encountered and worsted, apparently in the open field, on two occasions by the soldiers of China. Conjecture as to the use to which China has put the sharp lessons taught in previous campaigns by the incapacity of her best warriors to make any stand against the Western barbarian, owing to the inequality of arms and difference of training, is now in some degree set at rest. It is very safe to reckon that the battalions of the Czar were not routed by a rabble of matchlock men, or affrighted by two-sworded gentry advancing behind hideously painted shields. The breech-loader and the rifled field-gun are only to be successfully met with weapons of equal efficiency, and tactics are only to be overcome by tactics, except in cases where numerical superiority is prodigious indeed and assisted by reckless courage. Of any such inequality of forces we have no hint, and it may not unreasonably be inferred that the numbers of the opposing forces have not been more unequal than may be expected to happen in the ordinary chances of war. A surprise or an anticipation has never a fraction of the force of an accomplished fact; and frequently as the possibility of China stepping forward ere long as an effective military Power has been suggested, and fully as the possible results upon the future of the human race and of the world's political adjustments have been speculated upon, a great majority of people will now for the first time appreciate the situation so long foreseen by some. They will only take China into their reckoning from to-day.

The City of Sydney Improvement Act is by no means a small mercy, and thankfulness that such a law has a place among our statutes should not be stinted. Perfection, however, can only be approached by gradual steps, and it would be foolish, indeed, to pause because some progress has been made in the right direction. It remains still, unfortunately, possible, despite the provisions of the Improvement Act, for a system of building to continue which violates the most important principles of sanitary science. The minute subdivision of land in the city, and even in those suburbs which are subject to the provisions of the Act, is in itself an evil of a very grave kind. Tenements are run up in blocks, huddled together in a fashion which would justify any uninformed person in concluding that Australia is a cramped territory like Hongkong, and that there is absolutely no space sufficient to allow of residences standing in their own bit of garden. An instance of the sort of arrangement which continues possible, notwithstanding the restraints provided in the Act, has been brought under our notice, and will serve to indicate that the need of reform has not ceased. Two rows or terraces of tenements, facing in opposite directions, have between their back fences a long space somewhat wider than Pitt or George street. In this unlovely vacancy a third row of buildings—in this case a neat terrace of cottages—intended for residences for tenants of the labouring class, is in course of construction. It necessarily fronts at a very small distance the rear fences of one of the pre-existing terraces, and the sort of atmosphere in which its inhabitants will live may be conceived without any further description. Merely to view the place gives a feeling of revulsion, yet it is quite within the law, which mercifully, or mercilessly, enacts that no dwelling shall be built facing a roadway of a less width than 20 feet. There is a greater width of lane in this instance, but the other side of the lane is dotted with structures which assuredly the Legislature never contemplated should constitute one side of a 20-foot street. There is, indeed, a further provision in the Act which would meet such cases could it be infallibly administered. Plans showing the intended subdivision of land must be submitted before such sub-dividing may be effected, and plans must be similarly submitted, showing the manner in which buildings are to be erected and the disposition of their premises; and approval may be refused. But there is nothing which imposes upon intending builders the necessity for submitting an information or plan illustrative of the position of the intended residences with relation to adjoining properties, and consequently there is no means, save personal inspection of the locality, for ascertaining whether or not an outrage on decency and wholesome living may not in this way be perpetrated.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

AN informal meeting of gentlemen, representing the colonies, has been held in London, to discuss the question of Imperial unity. According to our cable message, the feeling of the meeting appears to have been in favour of the appointment of a Royal Commission, to include amongst its members delegates from the colonies. From another of our messages, published this morning, it will be seen that the celebration of the Ragkes' Centenary is occupying the attention of the people in London, and that the Churches generally are joining to commemorate the event. The Daily News regrets that the leading English cricketers hold aloof from the Australian team, and hopes that by the time another company of Australian cricketers visits England the hatchet will have been buried. We have the views of another of the English journals, the St. James's Gazette, on the reform struggle in Victoria. The Gazette is somewhat severe on the Berry party, and approves of Mr. Service's appeal to the country. From our commercial telegrams it will be seen that tin has improved to the extent of 15s. per ton, but copper has gone down 20s.

A MESSAGE from the Governor was read in the Legislative Council yesterday, intimating that the Church and School Lands Dedication Bill had been reserved for her Majesty's assent. A lengthened discussion took place upon a motion for adjournment in reference to the protection of the aborigines, and Sir John Robertson promised that the matter would receive the attention of the Government. The Supreme Court Temporary Judge Bill was read a second time on a division of 11 to 6, and the Volunteer Land Orders Bill was read a third time and passed.

SOME important questions about the Stamp Duties Act were asked, without notice, and were answered, in the Legislative Assembly last evening. Mr. Burns inquired if the practice which prevailed under the former Stamp Act, and which was recognized by the regulations made under that Act, of using postage stamps for duty stamps would be sanctioned by the Government now. Mr. Watson replied that this question had been under consideration by the Government, and that they had come to the conclusion that the duty might be paid by postage stamps. Mr. Macintosh then referred to the fact that many persons possessed stamps issued under the former Act, and inquired if these could be used now. Mr. Watson replied in the affirmative. As there appears to be some doubt as to whether a number of small value stamps may be used instead of a single stamp of a larger amount, we subjoin the clause of the Act that bears upon the subject:—"Clause 56. Any single stamp may be used to denote the total amount of duty, and two or more stamps may be used to denote any one duty; and all instruments stamped with one, two, or more stamps for denoting the amount of duty charged thereon shall be as valid as if the same had been stamped with a single stamp or any number of stamps."

THE whole of the new taxation proposals of the Government have now received the sanction of the Committee of Ways and Means, the proposed export duty upon coal having passed last night on a division by 24 votes to 16. The Appropriation Bill was subsequently passed throughout its remaining stages, and an order made that it should be sent to the Legislative Council, with the usual message, the final order being made at twenty-five minutes to 1 o'clock this morning.

THE Church of England Diocesan Synod closed its sittings yesterday. The question of marriage regulation was referred to the Standing Committee as a council of advice to the Bishop. A resolution was passed, on the motion of Mr. A. Gordon, affirming the desirableness of securing an Act for the vesting of Church property. The committee previously appointed to organize agencies for imparting religious instruction in Public schools was reappointed. A deputation was chosen to wait on the Minister for Public Instruction to draw his attention to the loss to teachers of Church of England schools by the reduction of the fees. A resolution was passed with a view to obtaining a return showing the progress of the Church during the last twenty-five years, and the Bishop's closing address was then delivered.

A DEPUTATION, consisting of Messrs. W. Henderson, W. Bullard, R. Sands, T. R. Yeo, W. Maddock, E. R. Cole, C. E. Fuller, W. Foster, C. T. Sandon, and E. T. Flanagan, introduced by Mr. Merriman, M.L.A., and Mr. J. Davies, M.L.A., waited on the Colonial Treasurer yesterday to ask that a larger commission should be allowed upon the sale of stamps, and also that none but authorized persons should be allowed a commission on their sale. Mr. Watson promised the deputation that he would give the earliest possible attention to the representations they had made to him.

THE licensees of the hotel cafes who failed to obtain renewals of their licenses at the annual licensing meeting closed their respective premises last night, their licenses having expired at midnight. Altogether there were thirteen cases in which the licenses were refused in April last, but since that time the licenses of five of these hotels have been transferred to respectable parties, in which case the police offered no objection to the transfers. Another attempt was made at the Water Police Court, yesterday, to transfer the license of the United Service Club Hotel, Castlereagh-street, from Charles Cowper, the sheriff, to Frank Macdonald, to whom the premises had been sold by the Sheriff by virtue of a writ of fi. fa., which, however, failed. An application made by Patrick Kelly, of the Mill Hotel, King-street, to transfer his license to Michael Mulry met with a similar fate, the Bench being of opinion that the transaction was not a bona fide one.

A TELEGRAM from our Mudgee correspondent states that the new bridge over the Cudgegong River at Guntawang was opened yesterday, by Mrs. Richard Rouse, of Guntawang. Fully 300 visitors were present, from Mudgee, Gulgong, and the surrounding district. Mr. T. A. Browne, Police Magistrate of Gulgong, occupied the chair, and spoke of the convenience the new bridge would be to the travelling public. Mrs. Rouse broke a bottle of champagne against the iron work, and named the structure "The Cudgegong Bridge," and declared it open. Mr. Rouse returned thanks for the honour done his wife, in asking her to perform the ceremony, and proposed the health of the visitors. This was duly responded to by Mr. R. H. D. White, J.P., and Mr. W. D. Meares, P.M. The healths of Mr. Nardin, Assistant Engineer for Roads, and Mr. Ahearn, contractor, were also proposed. Besides the opening ceremony there were races and other sports on the Guntawang racecourse.

WE have received a copy of a brochure entitled "Plantagenet Peachbloom," being a story in prose and verse of the "gentleman new chum." There are four woodcuts comprised in the sixteen pages of which the work is composed. With regard to the matter, a considerable amount of skill is displayed in the manipulation of this old theme, "the new chum," and but few we imagine will be disappointed on perusing the book. Messrs. Gibbs, Shallard, and Co. are the printers.

THE fourth annual meeting of the Australian Building Society was held at its offices, Waterloo-chambers, 458, George-street, Sydney, yesterday, at 4 p.m. Mr. D. O'Connor, M.L.A., occupied the chair. The report and balance-sheet showed that there had been received on deposit, £13,910; paid-up shares, £3579; repayment on advanced shares, £6159 16s. 3d.; instalments on investing shares, £1675; and other smaler items, making up a total of £25,943 16s. 8d. After paying interest on all deposits, and allowing 8 per cent. on all investing and paid-up shares, and setting aside the sum of £478 6s. 8d., being the calculated interest due on all deposits and shares for broken periods up to end of financial year, there was a credit balance of £110 6s. 10d., which was deemed very satisfactory. The chairman moved the adoption of the report, which, being seconded by Mr. Murray, was carried unanimously. Some alterations in the rules being approved of, Messrs. O'Connor, M.L.A., John T. Tooher, John Lynch, and M. M. M'Girr were elected directors for the ensuing year. A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the proceedings.

A VALEDICTORY tea meeting was given at Young, on Tuesday evening, to the Rev. George Grimm, M.A., Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, who, after a residence there of ten years, is leaving the district for West Bulmain, to which place he has received a call. Mr. John Russell presided, and all the local clergymen were present, and spoke in the most flattering terms of Mr. Grimm's talents. Addresses accompanied by sums of money were presented to the rev. gentleman from members of the Presbyterian Church; and an address and purse of sovereigns were also presented to him by Messrs. W. J. Watson and Sydney Bell, as a deputation from the townspeople not connected with the Presbyterian Church. All denominations were represented at the meeting, the members of which united in giving Mr. Grimm the most flattering expressions of their esteem.

ON Tuesday evening the Wesleyan schoolroom, Regent-street, was crowded to excess on the occasion of a conversazione and musical entertainment, got up by the young men and women of the Bible classes in connection with the Sunday school, with the view of raising a fund for the purpose of refurnishing their several class rooms. Mr. John Davies, M.L.A., was present, and in a suitable address formally opened the proceedings. The schoolrooms were elaborately and tastefully adorned with flags and banners, ferns, engravings, paintings, statuettes, and an elegant variety of choice pot plants; while the tables were prodigally furnished with photographs and other pictures, and many curios. Among the scientific exhibits were galvanic and electrical machines, hydrographs, graphoscopes, a telephone in operation, and (which was perhaps the most attractive) a slide of crystals of salicine as seen through the polarizer of the microscope. The attendance of the public was so great on Tuesday that it was found necessary to make room by the removal of many exhibits into an adjoining apartment. The musical programme last night was opened by an overture on the piano by Herr Hug Alpen, and this was followed by songs and recitations which were exceedingly well received. The attendance showed that the public interest had in no way abated; and it is probable that, instead of closing this evening, the exhibition will be kept open until Saturday evening.

THE annual meeting of the Sydney Night Refuge and Reformatory was held last night in the Temperance Hall, Mr. U. W. Carpenter in the chair. The report and balance-sheet presented showed the society to be in a solvent and satisfactory state, and they were both adopted. An amendment was made in two of the rules, the officers were appointed, and the meeting then terminated. A report appears in another column.

THE annual meetings of the Surry Hills branch of the Wesleyan Missionary Society were held this week—on Monday evening in William-street Church, on Tuesday evening in Cleveland-street Church, and last night in Bourke-street Church. From the financial statement it appeared that the contribution last year amounted (less expenses) to £229 8s. 8d., £136 8s. 9d. having been raised by the collectors of the juvenile societies in connection with the three Sunday-schools of the circuit. The attendance was on the whole larger than usual. The speakers were the Rev. Dr. Kelynack, President of Conference; the Rev. B. Chapman, general secretary of the society; the Rev. Isaac Rooney, lately from Fiji; the Rev. Thomas Moore, lately from Rotumah; the Rev. W. E. Bourne, and the Rev. F. Duesbury. The pecuniary proceeds of the anniversary services are said to be satisfactory.

IN the Masonic Hall, last night, a most successful soiree dansante was given, under the auspices of the Australian Social Lodge, 260, I.C., and the patronage of Bro. John Williams, J.P., D.G.M., E.C.; Bro. Dr. Sedgwick, D.G.M., S.C.; and Bro. J. W. Eyres, P.O.P., I.C. The arrangements were under the control of Brother Walter Stead, W.M., and were most satisfactory and complete. Brother Walker had the rooms very tastefully decorated; and the refreshments reflected greatly to the credit of Mr. Callaghan. The Prince of Wales Band supplied the music, and during the evening several brethren contributed vocal selections for the entertainment of the guests, with considerable success. Dancing was commenced at a little after 9 o'clock, and it was a late hour this morning before the festive gathering came to a conclusion.

A SACRED concert took place, last night, at the Mariners' Church, George-street North, in order to raise funds to pay off the debt due on the church organ which has lately been purchased. The programme consisted of solos, duets, and choruses, which were well rendered by the singers (members of the choir), assisted by a number of the Sunday school children. There was a good attendance. Mrs. Caldwell and Mr. Henry Gainford presided at the organ; Mr. John Godfrey acted as conductor. This is the fourth concert in aid of the above object, and it is expected that sufficient funds will now have been raised to pay off the debt.

THE Paddington Volunteer Fire Brigade Station was, on Tuesday evening last, the scene of a very pleasing ceremony, the occasion being the presentation to Mr. J. O'Dowd, manager of the Waverley and Woollahra United Omnibus Company, of a testimonial in recognition of services he has rendered in connection with the working of the brigade. Mr. E. Tanks, superintendent, on behalf of the members of the brigade, made the presentation in a neat speech. The testimonial consisted of a pair of silver-mounted spurs, whip, bridle, breastplate, and martingale, and bore the following inscription:—"Presented by the Paddington Volunteer Fire Brigade as a token of their good wishes to Mr. John O'Dowd, manager of the Waverley and Woollahra United Omnibus Company." Mr. O'Dowd responded in feeling terms, and expressed the gratification he always felt in being able to render useful services to such a valuable organization as the brigade in question.

ON Saturday afternoon, while Mr. H. Vickers, the manager of the Sydney Omnibus Company's coach-works, was at the Garden Palace with the Randwick Sabbath school children, Hampstead, his residence on the Long Bay Road, was broken into, and several articles were stolen from it. The thieves first entered the kitchen, and there obtained an iron fire-bar, with which they broke open the side door of the dwelling-house. They then searched every box and drawer in the place, and turned out every pocket; they even turned over the bedclothes in search of money. They were unable to find any, however, in consequence of Mr. Vickers not keeping much in the house and transacting his business principally by means of cheques. A drawer of a secretary, fastened with a very substantial lock, was smashed to pieces, and a number of papers were scattered over the floors. It was evident that the search was a very rapid one, and that the principal object was money; but, as this could not be obtained, the thieves contented themselves with abstracting two plain gold rings, some odd studs, a diamond, and a few other articles. Robberies of this character have become rather frequent in the suburbs, and we understand that the Long Bay Road residents, since this one has occurred, have ensured means for providing any would-be housebreaker in their locality with a warm reception.

ON Sunday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, a fire broke out in one of a row of four cottages at Greenwich, about 100 yards from the residence of Captain Mann, and notwithstanding that the most strenuous exertions were put forth by the neighbours and others, two of the four were totally destroyed, together with the contents of one of them. It appears that Mr. H. W. Mann was walking down the road not far from the houses, when a woman came running along and called out something which at the moment he did not understand. However, he went back towards the houses and saw that smoke was issuing from the roof of one of them, and on going inside saw the reflection of flames from the ceiling. He then came out again, clambered on the roof, and endeavoured to extinguish the flames (which were now issuing from the roof) with buckets of water, which were handed up to him by the neighbours. His efforts were, however, fruitless, and he had ultimately to beat a retreat. Others of the neighbours were engaged in removing the furniture from the building, and they succeeded in getting everything out before the flames had gained too firm a hold. The building was of stone, with a shingle roof. The adjoining cottage on the northern side, however, was of weatherboard, also shingled, and the flames spread so rapidly to it that it was at once seen that nothing whatever could be done to save even the building itself or its contents, which were totally destroyed, and in a very short space of time. Amongst those who rendered invaluable assistance were the boys from the training ship Vernon, who, with their officers, were on the spot within a quarter of an hour of the alarm being raised. The effects of discipline and a hearty willingness on the part of the boys to work were very conspicuous; and the boys are highly praised by those who witnessed their exertions. The cottages were the property of Mr. Larsen, master mariner; but it is not known whether they were insured.

EARLY yesterday morning a young girl, 15, named Agnes Hargraves, living in Kent-street, was taken to the Infirmary in an unconscious condition. Dr. Hastie was called up, and, with the assistance of Dr. Thomas, applied the stomach pump, and found the symptoms of the case to indicate poisoning. A cup, containing matter presumed to be poison, was taken to the institution, and is now kept there.

AT 25 minutes to 1 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in a shop at 10, Market-street, occupied by Mr. Richard Talbot, painter; but the alarm being raised immediately it was very soon extinguished by the neighbours with buckets of water. The damage was only slight, the interior and contents of the shop having suffered from the effects of the smoke. The origin of the fire is unknown. The engines of No. 2 Volunteer Fire Co., the City Fire Brigade, and the Insurance Brigade were promptly in attendance, but fortunately their services were not required. The building is the property of Mr. R. Burdekin, and is insured in the office of the United Insurance Co., while the stock was covered in that of the City Mutual.

THE following cases were reported to the City Coroner yesterday morning:—The death of a coloured man named John Williams (50), who had been admitted into the Infirmary on the 27th instant in a sick and destitute condition; and the death of a man named Hans Jansen (55). The latter was found lying in the fish market, very ill, on Tuesday, and was taken to the Infirmary, where he expired the same night. He was of intemperate habits.

A VERY sad and fatal accident occurred on Tuesday to a little boy six years of age, the son of Mr. William Broadhurst, the well-known musician and organist, of Ashfield. It appears the little fellow was climbing on to a cart going along Elizabeth-street, Ashfield, when his foot got entangled in the wheel, and he was thrown down and so severely injured that he died within half an hour of the occurrence. The circumstance has been reported to the City Coroner, and an inquest will be held this morning.

IT will be seen by advertisement that Mrs. Farley, wife of the late Mr. Henry Charles Farley, desires the friends of her late deceased husband who can make it convenient to attend the meeting of inquiry to be held at the Infirmary this evening.

WE notice that the American residents of Sydney intend celebrating the 104th anniversary of American Independence by a picnic to that pretty locality, Sandringham. From the number of tickets already disposed of, the affair promises to be one of unusual éclat.

THE second of the St. Andrew's course of popular illustrated lectures on Natural Science will be delivered by Mr. Alfred Morris, C.E., at the Schoolrooms, Pitt-street, to-night. The subject is the "A B C of Geology," and will be illustrated by diagrams, specimens, and experiments. The Dean of Sydney is announced to preside.

IMPERIAL UNITY.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

An informal meeting of representatives of the colonies was held to-day, to consider the question of Imperial unity. Sir Julius Vogel (Agent-General of New Zealand) presided, and Sir Arthur Blyth, Colonel Pasley, Mr. Westgarth, and several members of Parliament were amongst those present. The point discussed was, whether the subject should be initiated by representations from the colonies or from England to the colonies. Finally a feeling was expressed in favour of appointing a Royal Commission, which would include colonial delegates. Sir Daniel Cooper, Mr. Arthur Macalister, Sir A. T. Galt were unable to attend the meeting, which was adjourned for a week.

THE DEFEAT OF MR. SERVICE.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

The St. James' Gazette attributes Mr. Service's defeat to the action of the Catholics and disappointed placemen. It approves of the appeal to the country, and believes the colony generally is disgusted with Mr. Berry's crude democratic policy and the Chinese agitation dodge of the Berryites.

Mr. Courtney has given notice of a question in the House of Commons as to whether Mr. Service has asked for a dissolution, and, if so, whether the Governor has acceded to the request.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CENTENARY.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

The Sunday School Centenary celebration in London occupies the whole of this week, 300 churches will take part. The dissenters sent delegates from America, New Zealand, and Australia. Twelve million children will be represented. The Bishop of London and the leading dissenting ministers take part in the proceeding.

THE DAILY NEWS ON THE AUSTRALIAN TEAM.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

The Daily News, in a leader to-day, regrets that the great English cricketers seek to avoid instead of meeting the Australian team, whose spirit has been good-humoured throughout. It deplores the improbability of the Australian team competing at Lord's, or on the Oval, and hopes that the hatchet will be buried before another Australian team visits England.

HOSTILITIES BETWEEN RUSSIA AND CHINA.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

Advices have been received from Central Asia that hostilities have been actively commenced between the Russian and the Chinese troops.

Two severe engagements have occurred, in both of which the Chinese have been successful, the Russians being defeated, and suffering heavy losses.

Emboldened by these successes, the Chinese are advancing upon Kuldja, which province they are endeavouring to occupy before the arrival of Russian reinforcements.

THE AUSTRALIAN CRICKETERS.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

The match between the Australian team and Harrowgate Eighteen was continued to-day, and resulted in another easy victory for the Australians by 10 wickets. Bonnor batted well, carrying out his bat for 59.

The weather is fine and very cold. One of the heaviest frosts known for years was visible this morning.

COPELAND. WEDNESDAY.

Fifteen tons from No. 1 South Homeward Bound claim (Pemberton and party) yielded 54 oz. The Hidden Treasure Prospectors' (Cameron, Hicks, and party) crushed 73 tons, and are now retorting. It is expected that 600 oz. will be obtained. Prospectors' lease at the Golden Spur crushed at Bowman's machine 52 tons for 155 oz. This mine is still looking well in the deepest level.

The escort leaves to-morrow, taking upwards of a thousand ounces.

Messrs. Copeland and Johnston, M.L.A., are expected here for the opening of the bridge over the Barrington River. A member of the Government is also expected to be present.

The crushing machine for the Prince Charlie mine has arrived at Booral wharf. The erection of Mr. Richards' machine is rapidly approaching completion.

INVERELL. WEDNESDAY.

Very rich finds of tin have been made at Staniffer, twelve miles from Inverell. Over 200 miners are working now, and more are flocking there daily. All the shafts sunk have bottomed on good tin, and the field promises to outstrip Vegetable Creek. Two stores, three public-houses, two boarding-houses, and numerous huts are being erected, and it is expected that 500 men will be working shortly. The find has caused excitement here, and the field is daily visited by large numbers of townspeople.

WEST KEMPSEY. WEDNESDAY.

A numerously attended meeting was held at West Kempsey yesterday evening, in support of the Licensing Bill, and Mr. J. B. Casey occupied the chair. Several clergymen and most of the influential inhabitants warmly advocated a reform in the licensing laws, and a petition to that effect was adopted unanimously, and obtained a large number of signatures.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ADELAIDE, WEDNESDAY.

In the Assembly a somewhat exciting debate took place on Mr. Bright's motion for the appointment of a select committee to inquire into the expenses of Josiah Boothby, our Executive Commissioner at the Paris Exhibition, and his irregular conduct as Under-Secretary and civil servant in obtaining £1500 for his own personal expenses without the authority of the Government or Exhibition Commissioners. The Treasurer deprecated a long speech in the present state of affairs, and asked whether Mr. Bright was in order in entering fully into particulars. The Deputy Speaker said he was quite in order. Mr. Bright then resumed, and said the Treasurer knew perfectly well he had a right to enter into particulars, and he would do so. He then stated that the Commissioners regarded Mr. Boothby's personal expenses as excessively large. He had charged £1200 personal expenses, besides travelling expenses and £300 or £400 besides. In all his personal expenses were put down at between £1800 and £1900, and yet the main argument as to why he was appointed by the Commissioners was that he would be receiving a year's leave on full salary as Under-Secretary, and therefore his expenses would be less. He returned to the colony more than twelve months ago, and had not yet rendered an account of his personal expenses, but it appeared he had signed a Treasury warrant for himself for £1500, and the Chief Secretary had made him refund the money. Mr. Bright read a letter, from which it appeared £6900 had been spent already, and the Government said they still held £1500, which they would pay over to Commissioners if they said it was required in their behalf. The Treasurer did not oppose a select committee, and courted the fullest inquiry. Messrs. Bray, Colton, Glyde, and other leading members of the Opposition, while not making a party question of this serious affair, demanded that the Government ought either to justify their officer or dismiss him, and not relegate the unpleasant duty to a Select Committee. The motion was carried, and a committee appointed to report a fortnight hence. Mr. Bray sought to move an amendment, that the committee should not report till the Government had informed the House what they would do with their officer, but the Deputy Speaker ruled it could not be put, and Mr. Bray said he would move it as a motion as early as the forms of the House would permit. The Treasurer said Mr. Boothby had not been suspended; and several hon. members said he ought to be, pending inquiry.

THE JAPANESE NAVY.—In the Japan Directory for the current year, published at Yokohama, a list of the 24 vessels at present comprising the strength of the Japanese Navy is given. DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL.—ITS UNRIVALLED EFFICACY IN THE WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.—Dr. G. Saunders, C.B., late Deputy-Inspector-General Army Hospitals, Superintendent London Medical Mission, writes:—"I have used Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, extensively among the sick poor of St. Giles's, and consider it a valuable remedy, especially in the Wasting Diseases of Children." Dr. Stavely King, Physician to the Metropolitan Free Hospital, writes:—"I can very conscientiously testify to the superior qualities of Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil. I have employed it with great advantage in cases of mesenteric and pulmonary tubercle, and in the atrophic diseases of children." Dr. R. C. Croft, author of "Handbook for the Nursery," writes:—"I have tried Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find that it contains all the properties which render the oil so efficacious. I find, moreover, that many patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably. It is almost a specific in many of the diseases peculiar to infancy and childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use." Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, pints, and quarts, by all chemists and druggists. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 77, Strand, London. THE KELLY GANG.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

BENALLA, WEDNESDAY.

It is stated that Dick Hart openly dared the police at M'Donnell's hotel, Glenrowan, to interfere in any way with the funerals of Dan Kelly and Steve Hart. The words attributed to him are, "If you want the bodies back you will have to fight for them." From the statements of two men who came into Benalla from Gretta to-day, it appears that on the arrival of the bodies there was great excitement in the district. The remains were laid on a table in Mrs. Skillian's hut, which was soon crowded. So great was the crush that Mrs. Skillian lost her temper, and, seizing a gun, hustled the crowd out, and then allowed them to view the remains in couples. Many of the male sympathisers were armed, and whilst in a drunken state professed to be anxious for a brush with the police. It is further averred that one of the relatives of the Kellys held up his hand over the remains, and swore to Kate Kelly that he would be revenged for the slaughter of the gang. His name has been given to the police. Lest any disturbance should take place in the district whilst the sympathisers are in their present state of intoxication and excitement, senior-constable Kelly and four troopers have been sent on again this evening to Glenrowan, and will remain there all night. Up to the present, however, things are quiet. Ned Kelly's mare was found on the railway line, a few miles from Glenrowan, saddled and bridled. The saddle resembled that of Byrne, and bears the name of the same Wangaratta manufacturer. The mare has been identified by Mr. Ryan, farmer, of Major Plains, as one of two stolen from a paddock on his farm on the night of last Thursday week. It is a splendid upstanding mare, nearly 16 hands high, and a grand horse for crossing any kind of country. Ned Kelly was quite enthusiastic over the excellent qualities of the animal. The horse ridden by Byrne was the second of the two stolen from Ryan's farm. They were not stolen by the gang themselves, but by a sympathiser, who was seen crossing the railway line, near Glenrowan, with them on the Thursday night in question. Both were unshod when stolen, but have since been shod, evidently in a hurry, for the shoes were fastened very lightly, and were easily removed. It is quite evident that the Kellys were forced from their concealment by the activity of the police. Parties of police were sent to all their haunts secretly, with orders to keep a close but silent lookout for the gang. The vicinity of Byrne's house had become so hot for them that they felt obliged to strike out and terrify any who might be inclined to give information to the police by murdering Sherrett. Being then frightened of being tracked by the Queensland black trackers, they took steps to destroy them by wrecking the special train, and they arranged at the same time to secure a party of police, whom they had been informed were looking out for traces of them at Glenrowan. They had received the latter information from some good authority, for there had been a party of police, consisting of constables Wallace, Ryan, and Barry, secured secretly in the Glenrowan police camp for a week previous to the murder of Sherrett. Those three constables were concealed in the barracks all day, and every night they walked to the Seven Mile Creek and Greta, looking silently for the gang. Strangely enough, however, they had returned to Benalla last Saturday. The names of the police party who first attacked the gang at Glenrowan are Superintendent Hare, senior-constable Kelly, constables Arthur, Kirkham, Barry, Canny, Gascoigne and Phillips. Cherry's body was buried today in the Benalla Cemetery. Byrne's friends asked for the body of that outlaw on Tuesday, but they did not receive it, as reported. It was interred quietly, at night, in the cemetery by policemen and undertaker.

Mrs. Kelly, who is in the Melbourne Gaol, has been made acquainted with the fate of her sons.

long time looked upon, not alone by Byrne, but also by the other members of the gang and their sympathisers generally, as being one of themselves. Consequently, he was trusted to a far greater extent than a great many others whom they had a suspicion of going 'crooked.' Some time after one of the latest of the Kelly outrages, and when it was thought they had left the colony, the police received reliable information that the gang were still in the King River Ranges, and were in the habit of frequenting the houses of Mrs. Byrne and Mrs. Skillion, the sister of the Kellys. Aaron Sherrett was thereupon told off to watch their movements, and in company with a constable in disguise actually lived for several days with the sisters of the Kellys, near Greta. Sherrett introduced the constable, who arrived in disguise, and on horseback, as a notorious horsestealer from New South Wales, who wished to dodge the police for a time, and, though during the term of their visit several of the relatives of the gang came off and on to the hut, the constable was never recognized, nor the intentions of Sherrett and his supposed mate suspected. On one occasion, a near relative of the Kellys, well acquainted with the constable, called, but failed to recognize the latter, or penetrate the object of the visit. It was the custom of both Sherrett and the constable to go out in the scrub during the day, and watch the house at a convenient distance, taking turn about to catch a few hours' sleep, while at night they occupied the same room, and almost constantly lay awake, watching the approaches to the house, in case the gang should pay an unexpected visit. This was kept up for over a week without the slightest sign of the Kellys in the vicinity, and the constable and Sherrett then gave it up as hopeless, the former going back to duty, and the latter knocking about the district as usual. The particulars of the occurrence did not leak out until some time afterwards, when it was suspected amongst the Kellys' friends that Sherrett's release from custody and his subsequently getting clear in the horse-stealing case brought against him by Mrs. Skillion (the Kellys' sister) was in some way attributable to his intimacy with the police and his evident intention to sell the gang on the first opportunity. From particulars which came out afterwards their surmises proved to be correct, and since that time Sherrett has become a marked man, and has now met a terrible fate at the hands of the bloodthirsty gang, who have not only shown their determination to have revenge for what is past, but also their evident intention of striking terror into the hearts of any that may have even the remotest idea of betraying them, at present or in the future."

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The weights for the Melbourne Cup commence at a lower scale than those for the Metropolitan, and Chester, who heads the list, is a trifle better in than he is for our race; and it is, therefore, quite possible that the honour of the stable will be left to Democrat for our big event, while Chester may be reserved to play his best card in the great handicap of our neighbours. On public form Calanis, Martinvale, and Wellington have got none the best of it when compared with the top weight; but 8 st 10 lbs is not a pound too much for Woodlands, who, if his leg does not come against him, must be particularly dangerous. Bosworth has got more than enough with 8 st 8 lbs; and so has Avernus, with 8 st 6 lbs; but the friends of Darriwell should be satisfied at his receiving 8 st 7 lbs; and his old opponent Sweetmeat has also been fairly used at 8 st 4 lbs. At 8 st 3 lbs each, Democrat and Columbus must be regarded with respect; and, with only 8 st 2 lbs in the saddle, Mata also creates a favourable impression. Andover appears to be one of the best in of his year; and, with 7 st 7 lbs, Secundus must be one of the hardest to beat; but South Hamilton has his full portion in 8 st 1 lb, and he will have to be nearly as brilliant as Petrea to get near the first flight. First Water, Zambesi, and the Adelaide Cup winner, Banter, have been dealt with strictly in accordance with public running, and the gallant old Richmond has escaped well when required to carry only 7 st 12 lbs. Imperial has been about properly placed, and at 7 st 4 lbs Fau Blas strikes one as having been very kindly used. Should Napper Tandy return to his best form, he would be in it a long way with 7 st 1 lb, and Lord Burghley cannot complain at being allotted 4 lbs more. Elastic would seem to have been leniently treated, and Lowlander and Lohengrin are better in than most. The then three-year-olds are headed by Kamilároi with 7 st 1 lb, and a few pounds less would have made the work look better. The handicap requires a deal of looking into, and perhaps the best in at the weights are Andover, Lohengrin, Dover, Mata, Chester, Secundus, Sweetmeat, Fau Blas, Lord Burghley, Democrat, and Darriwell.

FOOTBALL.

FOOTBALL UNDER VICTORIAN RULES.—A very largely attended meeting was held last evening, at Hook's Freemasons' Hotel, York-street, for the purpose of considering the propriety of forming a Football Association under Victorian rules. Mr. Wynne occupied the chair, and the first resolution, moved by Mr. H. C. Rogers, was as follows:—"That in the opinion of this meeting a radical change in the game of football, as at present played in this colony, is necessary." This motion was seconded by Mr. W. L. Weiss, and supported by Mr. Bowen, both of whom spoke at some length on the subject. Mr. M. Arnold, however, spoke in opposition to the resolution, and contended that, although the Rugby game might be susceptible of improvement, it was superior to the game as played under the Victorian rules. Mr. Waldron (of the University Club) also deprecated the proposed change, and explained that his main object in attending the meeting was to remove an impression which had got abroad that the club to which he belonged favoured the object of the meeting. He was authorized to state that the University players still adhered to the Rugby rules. The resolution was put, and carried unanimously. A large committee was then appointed to carry out the object of the resolution and bring up a code of rules in substitution of those now in force, and a cordial vote of thanks to the chairman for presiding having been passed, the adjournment of the meeting was moved, when one or two of those present, who had apparently paid no attention to the proceedings, expressed an opinion that the first resolution adopted was too vague, and that the committee appointed—although composed of gentlemen who were in favour of the Victorian rules—might not carry out the evident wishes of the meeting. This suspicion having been once aroused caused some excitement, and not a little confusion, the result being an irregular discussion, which the temporary chairman found some difficulty in terminating. It was pointed out that the adjourned meeting would have power to deal with the committee's recommendations as it thought proper, but this was not enough, and as soon as the meeting had recovered its equanimity a fresh chairman was appointed, and the two first resolutions were incontinently rescinded. The following resolution was then moved and carried with considerable enthusiasm:—"That the gentlemen present, or those who desire to do so, form themselves into an association to be called the New South Wales Football Association, and that they adopt the Victorian Football Association rules." The meeting was then adjourned until next Wednesday evening, at the same time and place, to elect office-bearers.

2ND BALMAIN V. COOK'S RIVER.—A very pleasant game took place between the above clubs, at Cook's River, on Saturday, 26th ultimo, the result being a win for the Balmain team by a goal and three tries to their opponents' goal and one try. During the first part of the game, Balmain playing down the hill, appeared to have the advantage, securing a goal and two tries to nil; but, after half-time, the game was more even, Hughes and Reilly, ably assisted by the Cook's River forwards, frequently bringing the oval into dangerous proximity with the Balmain goal posts, until Hughes, by a clever drop-kick, secured a goal for Cook's River. Play being resumed, Balmain and Cook's River each obtained a try, from which, however, nothing resulted. Cook's River now made a determined effort, but were well met by Balmain, and soon time was called. For Cook's River the play of Hughes, Reilly, Guille, and Farrar was most conspicuous; while Broomfield, Buchanan, Allt, and Clemenger performed a like office for Balmain.

RUGBY V. ORIENTAL.—This event came off on Saturday last, on the ground of the former, Stanmore, and resulted, after a very well-contested match, in a draw. During the first half of the game, the Orientals, playing down hill, managed to keep the ball well in the centre of the field, compelling their opponents to touch down twice behind their own goal; but in the second half, the Rugby playing better together, forced the Orientals down twice, and the "oval" was kept in close proximity to the latter's goal until "no side" was called, when the result of the game was not altered. The following played very well:—Rugby: Morris, Jones, Tye (captain), Chapman, and White; Orientals: Lulland, Downs, M'Can (captain), Pattison, and Thompson.

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The charms of "Our Boys" are certainly ever green; still the play attracts good houses at the Royal, and the impression of the general excellence of the present representation, deepens with every visit. There is such a full understanding, and easy familiarity with all the personages concerned, that the actors lose the stiffness of stage business, and seem to be really enjoying themselves. The distinctness of Mr. Marshall's Butterman is nightly more defined, and is a thorough study of true genuine comedy; every attitude seems the most natural for the time being; his shy half-springy walk as he skirts round the settee in the second act, his exuberant delight as Charlie and Mary appear to be "spooning," his rising indignation at Charlie's anxiety to suppress the accounts of the short-sighted carman's misdeeds, and of the glories of the public which afforded facilities for skittles, each in turn, excite the applause of his hearers and spectators, and prove his own power. Good as the first and second acts are, with the present company the third closely rivals them; all the characters appear to excellent advantage, and the addition of Belinda is important. Miss Annie Taylor plays the typical lodging-house "slavey" to a perfection hitherto unapproached. The contending feelings of the two fathers manifested in such opposite styles, make portions of this act among the best things done by the actors. The Butterman's attempt to conceal any trace of emotion—the relief which Sir Geoffrey tries to gain by condoling with his old friend—the gusto with which the two vent their spleen on the first object in their way, as, for example, on the unoffending "hinferior Dusset" are all touches of true art. The whole comedy plays most agreeably. "The Boys" themselves are the best we have had, and the girls are charmingly feminine, attractive, and constant. The popularity of the play and the players is undiminished; but in spite of this a change is announced for Saturday, when "Pygmalion and Galatea" will be produced, so that only two more opportunities of seeing "Our Boys" remain. The new stage manager's duties seem to press lightly on Mr. Marshall.

The music of the orchestra was unusually good; Mr. Rice gets the very best from the available material, and is himself a capital leader. The "Wedding March" went famously; the last quadrille was, in a musical sense, scarcely worthy of the company in which it appeared.

VICTORIA THEATRE.

Without doubt Mr. Grattan Riggs is a great Irish comedian, the fun inherent in the sons of the Emerald Isle, seems in him to shine with exceptional lustre, and in the various parts he assumes in "Shin Fane" he displays high qualities as an actor, apart from the peculiar nationality. His powers of disguising voice as well as form, and of so rapidly changing the character of the person he represents, maintaining, at times, two characters almost simultaneously, attests his versatility. His earnestness, vigilance, and genuine touches of pathos announce him as largely endowed by nature, and well trained by art. The cast throughout is good, the ladies and gentlemen engaged each appear to lend their best efforts to secure completeness in the whole representation, and they succeed well. The beautiful scenery deservedly calls forth warm admiration. Every one in theatrical Australia has heard of or seen the triumphs of Hennings as a scene painter; and it is no small credit to the artiste of the Victoria Theatre that, from the absence of any statement on the "Entr' Acte" as to the scenery used, we, in the first instance, attributed it to the Melbourne artist of whose work for "Shin Fane" the Melbourne Press spoke so highly. All the more honour to the New South Wales artist, Mr. Setright, of whom, as a native of our own colony, we have every reason to be proud, did he produce no other scenes than the views of Kerry, and of the Round Tower Ruins. They are two effective and beautiful scenes. In a different style, but not less meritorious are the ship scene in the third, and the Bay of New York in the fourth acts, these are from the brush of Mr. Alfred T. Clint. Last night the play was received with every mark of favour. Miss Kate Foley prominently associated with Mr. Riggs in the drama, and in the public liking. Miss Anstead, Mr. Carey, and Mr. H. N. Douglas are each popular, and several others contribute largely to the success of the piece.

The dancers last night could not be complimented as on their first attempt; practice ought not to make them less perfect.

The house was good. "Shin Fane" should hold its own for some time.

NORTH BRITISH AND MERCANTILE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Report by the directors presented to the seventieth annual general meeting of the company, held at Edinburgh on Friday, April 2, 1880. The directors submit the following report on the business of the company during the year, which closed on December 31, 1879:—

Fire Business.—In 1876 the net premiums received amounted to £915,190 1s. 3d.; during 1879 the premiums received amounted to £1,157,015 2s. 8d.; deduct re-insurances, £234,344 16s. 5d.; net premiums were £902,670 6s. 3d., exhibiting a decrease of £13,325 15s. The losses by fire have amounted to £477,145 14s. 6d.; this includes a full estimate of all claims that had arisen prior to December 31, 1879. After setting aside, as usual, one-third of the premium for the year, to provide for the liabilities on the current policies, the balance on the profit and loss account for 1879, including £57,047 14s. 3d., brought forward from 1878, amounts to £282,003 0s. 11d.

Disposal of Profits.—At December 31st, 1879, there stood at the credit of profit and loss the sum of	£282,003	0 11
Out of which the directors recommend the payment of a dividend of £2 per share free of income-tax, or	£80,000 and of a bonus of 5s per share, or ...	10,000
	90,000	0 0
Leaving	£192,003	0 11
In pursuance of the policy enunciated by the general court last year, and sanctioned by the shareholders, the directors now propose to deal with a further special bonus of £2 10s. per share, which will provide the shareholders with funds equivalent to the call of like amount per share which it is intended to make; this amounts to	100,000	0 0
Leaving	£92,003	0 11

Of the dividend of £2 per share now proposed, 17s. 6d. was paid in October: the balance of £1 2s. 6d., with the 5s. per share of bonus, being £1 7s. 6d. in all, will be payable on the 9th instant. Until a comparatively recent date, the dividend of the company was paid in one sum annually. When it was resolved that a dividend should be paid half-yearly, this was accomplished by declaring an interim dividend out of the profits of the current year, payable in October. There is some inconsistency in declaring a dividend out of profits as yet unascertained, and the directors are glad to take this opportunity of adopting a better system. They propose, therefore, out of the above balance of £92,003 0s. 11d., to set aside the sum of £40,000 to meet a half-yearly dividend payable in October. Next year, and henceforth, it is intended that the dividend shall be payable in two equal instalments at April and October, out of the ascertained profits of the previous year.

Deducting therefore from the above balance of the sum set aside for dividend payable in October, 1880 ...	£40,000 and the sum proposed to be voted to Mr. Smith	5,000
	45,000	0 0
There remains	£47,003	0 11

which it is proposed to carry forward at the credit of profit and loss. At December 31, 1879, after providing for the dividend and bonus, the paid-up capital and reserve and undivided profits of the company amounted to £1,506,696 1s. 3d. At December 31, 1879, these, after setting aside £40,000 for the October dividend, amount to £1,592,470 2s. 11d.

MELBOURNE LIVE STOCK MARKET.

[By TELEGRAPH.]

MELBOURNE, WEDNESDAY.

R. Gibson and Co. report 2100 fat cattle were forward and disposed of to-day, consisting of much better quality than usual. No improvement in values took place, the late low rates ruling throughout, best bullocks making £8 to £9, and good ditto, £6. We sold 260 Victorian cattle for different owners. 8000 fat sheep yarded, and prices remain unaltered. Prime merino wethers made up to 13s. We sold 3000 for different owners.

King and Cunningham report 2100 cattle yarded, and good quality showed an improvement, but others are unaltered. Best pens brought £7 10s to £9 2s 6d, and good £5 to £6 10s. We sold lots from Gippsland for Messrs. Little, Horstman, and Schroeder. Only 7000 sheep penned, and the demand was brisk. Best merinos brought 11s to 13s 6d, and crossbreds 16s. We sold 1000 through the yards, and 10,000 for Wellshot, Queensland, delivered on the Barwon, and 1800 pure merino ewes for Mr. John Wilson, of Gain, Victoria, at a high figure.

Dalmahoy Campbell and Co. report: 2100 fat cattle penned and sold to-day, 700 came from Queensland and New South Wales, the balance being Victorian. The quality range from prime to good and useful, with about one-fifth inferior, which were sold to the greatest advantage. The weather was cold and wet, and the attendance moderate, biddings being dull at last Thursday's low rates. Only 7000 fat sheep yarded, and very few prime sheep were penned, but some of the large butchers having stock on hand, prices were not so brisk as they otherwise would have been, still the market may be quoted at 1s per head up.

Powers, Rutherford, and Co. report: 2100 cattle yarded, which sold at about equal to last week's reduced quotations. We disposed of 250 in the yard. 7000 sheep yarded, and prices have advanced 1s for prime. We sold 3000 wethers outside.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND SYNOD.

The Synod met again yesterday at ten minutes to 4 o'clock.

The PRESIDENT having read prayers,

The clerical secretary (the Rev. ALFRED YARNOLD) read the minutes of the previous sitting, and they were confirmed, except a part of an answer respecting Mr. Durham, which the Bishop withdrew.

ANSWER TO QUESTIONS.

The PRESIDENT, in reply to Mr. H. S. Bond, said that he was not aware that there was a branch of the English Church Union in Sydney; that he did not know whether any of the clergy of the diocese were members of the Union, or where the rules of the Union could be obtained.

MARRIAGE LAWS.

The debate was resumed on the motion of the Rev. Canon KING,—"That to attempt to subject the members of the Church of England in this diocese to any peculiar conditions, as regards the celebration of marriage—such conditions not being required by the law of the land, or by any law of the Church—is in the opinion of this Synod unwise and inexpedient." On which the Rev. C. F. GARNSEY had moved an amendment to omit the words from the end of the word "marriage" in the second line, to the end of the word "Church" in the third line, with a view to insert words "in reference to the residence of the parties in the parish in which they seek to be married."

The Dean of SYDNEY objected to the tone of the resolution, as it seemed to convey a remonstrance against the Bishop's observations on the opening of the Synod. It was framed in a spirit that he believed would not be acceptable to the Synod. If it were passed it would be impressed upon the clergy that they had no law in the Church. It appeared to him that the Church in the matter of the celebration of marriage had very wisely surrounded her people with restrictions for which he at least was very thankful. The restrictions had had the effect of preventing illegal marriages. By the Church regulations of 1867 he had been preserved from mistakes from which the law of the colony would not have preserved him. That law was never intended to rule the Church of England or any other Church. In 1867 a resolution was passed by the Synod of this diocese to the effect that it was desirable to apply for the amendment of the law requiring that announcement should be made to the clergyman beforehand by persons wishing to be married, and that the form of declaration should be so altered as that they must affirm that they were of the full age of 21 years, or in the event of being minors they had the consent of parents or guardians. A deputation was appointed to wait on the Colonial Secretary on the subject, and Sir Henry Parkes promised to bring it before the Assembly if the business admitted. But it was never done. The matter had again in 1871, and subsequently, been dealt with in the Synod, which had always held the law to be very defective with regard to the declaration of age. The Act stated that the parties must be 21; but the declaration was not in harmony with that. As to the question whether the license was necessary or not, he held the opinion that the clergyman was shut up to one way of marrying if he determined to dispense with the license—that was after the publication of banns. The Rubric, as the law of the Church, decided that. He thought there was a necessity for some additional precautions with regard to the celebration of marriage over and above the marriage laws of the colony. The marriages in what might be called the marriage shops of Sydney in former times had been productive of enormous mischief in this community, both in respect of the number of deserted wives, and also in the creation of a low state of feeling with regard to the marriage rite. The Church ought to have an opportunity to make inquiries, unless the State undertook the work, as it did in New Zealand, leaving the clergymen free to marry any one who came with a certificate from the State-Registrar that there was no legal barrier. He should vote against the resolution and the amendment.

The Rev. T. B. TRESS thought the marriage regulations were rather honoured in the breach than in the observance—especially that with regard to residence. He maintained that this ought to be enforced.

The Rev. Canon MORETON said he had not used the marriage license for some years, because he was under the impression that the Bishop had dispensed with the license. He for one should be glad if they could give their people on marriage some document from the Bishop, for among the few documents he valued was his own marriage license. Still, he must confess that he thought that they wanted every possible lawful means to hold their people in the Church of England. And, while he said this he must say that he always put applicants for marriage through a very sifting examination. He could not vote for the resolution or the amendment, and he did not like handing the matter over to the Standing Committee. He suggested that the Bishop should call around him certain of the clergy and laity, in order that it might be ventilated. They would doubtless afford the Bishop valuable information, and he should be very willing to act on any decision that might be arrived at.

The Rev. T. HAYDEN was glad to hear that the Bishop did not propose to dispense with the license. The Parliamentary affidavit required from the persons to be married was altogether too vague. In England they did not marry without a license or the publication of banns. There possibly might be some reason for change with regard to the residence qualification.

After some remarks from Mr. C. Stuart and Mr. W. Russell,

The BISHOP said it was fallacious to call upon them to follow the law because the Church at home followed the law of England. He thought it ought to be put in the reverse order—that the law of England had followed the law of the Church. If Sir Henry Parkes had kept the promise given years ago, they would have the law of the colony in a better position than at present. It was acknowledged that the law of the land was defective; and the Church of England had endeavoured to supply the defect. As so much objection had existed to the oath, he had complied with the wish of many in that particular. From what had been said he was bound to believe that there had been some indefiniteness respecting his views on this subject. He must say, that without the license and regulations, that he thought the clergy would be reduced to the position of deputy registrars. He hoped it would be understood that he wanted to govern the Church in the colony with the advice and assistance of those around him. He could not fall in with the suggestion of Canon Moreton. The Standing Committee was the proper council of advice, to whom the matter should be referred.

The Rev. Canon STEPHEN suggested that the Bishop be respectfully requested to confer with the Standing Committee as to the conditions to be observed in the diocese in the celebration of marriage.

The Rev. Canon KING replied, and denied that he had ever violated his conscience in the course he had pursued in performing marriages. He had never issued a license for marriage for any other parish than his own. He should at once return his surrogate's license. How he should act in regard to the celebration of marriage in future, he should hereafter consider.

The resolution and the amendment were withdrawn, and the PRESIDENT promised that he would immediately act on the suggestion of the Rev. Canon Stephen.

CHURCH PROPERTY.

Mr. ALEXANDER GORDON moved,—"That having reference to the position of Church property in this diocese, it is desirable that steps be taken to obtain an Act rendering applicable to it the provisions of the bill to which the assent of the last Provincial Synod and of the last Synod of this diocese was given. And that it be referred to the standing committee to adopt such action as may be necessary to secure that in the next session of the Legislature, the bill so assented to be introduced on behalf of all the dioceses in this colony, or if that be found impracticable that a similar bill be introduced on behalf of the Diocese of Sydney and such other dioceses, if any, as may be willing to concur in the measure."

The resolution was seconded and agreed to.

SUNDAY SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The name of Mr. WILKINSON was added to the committee appointed to give effect to the recommendations of the Committee on Sunday schools.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Rev. E. G. HODGSON moved,—"That the Committee appointed by the last Synod to assist the Bishop in initiating and organising the agencies recommended by the Synod for imparting religious instruction in Public schools, be requested to continue his services during the present Synod and to report to the Synod at each session." He urged that the existing committee be reappointed. They were in possession of many facts, and much information, and it was desirable that they should be re-elected.

The DEAN seconded the motion.

Mr. WILKINSON thought that steps should be taken at once to create an organisation sufficiently fitted to take advantage of the opportunities allowed under the new Act. So far the clergy had almost sole—hitherto carried on the work. But it was impossible that it could be done by the clergy alone. It was desirable that the laity should assist, as they did in Sunday schools, under the authority of the Bishop. The instruction must be communicated in an efficient manner, otherwise its effect would be lost in schools where the secular school instruction was given orally. It seemed to him that there should be a selection of books for the systematic religious instruction of children in the Public schools. Unless they did that the quality of the education would not be good, and too much responsibility would be thrown upon the instructors. It was not likely that they would be able to get a large amount of funds for carrying out this work. They might get a certain amount of subscriptions from the laity, and create a small fund which could be worked economically. But with all that they could do, they would have to depend to a large extent upon the gratuitous services of lay teachers.

The PRESIDENT reminded Judge Wilkinson that he was one of the committee who were specially appointed to prepare the books. Work had been carried on already on a scheme devised by Mr. Hodgson, and all they wanted was the active co-operation of the churchmen of the diocese.

The resolution was agreed to.

SALARIES OF CHURCH OF ENGLAND TEACHERS.

The Rev. Canon KING moved,—"1. That a deputation be appointed to wait upon the Hon. Minister of Public Instructions to draw his attention to the practical working of the regulation determining the salaries of teachers in Church of England schools. 2. That such deputation consist of the President, the Very Rev. the Dean of Sydney, the Rev. E. G. Hodgson, Messrs. Alexander Gordon and Alexander Stuart, and the mover." He doubted whether he should move this resolution, as he understood that, in answer to the observations of Mr. Greenwood and Mr. Cohen, Sir Henry Parkes had promised to remedy the grievances of teachers of Denominational schools in regard to the want of provision for an increase of salary to them in lieu of the diminished fees. In St. Michael's school the primary teacher had to bear a loss equal to £70 or £80 a year, and the female teacher a loss of £40. Not having any allowance for rent, as was made to the Public school teacher, they were in a very unfair position, and could not afford the loss.

The DEAN seconded the resolution; and referred to several schools of which the teachers had been deprived of a large part of their income. Under the new Schools Act the Public school teachers would receive a great addition to their salaries on account of rent. There was a great difference in the treatment of the two classes of teachers. They ought to pass the resolution. The Public school teachers had been gazetted as Civil servants, while no such course had been pursued with regard to the Denominational school teachers, who were deserving of their sympathy.

The BISHOP thought they ought to carry out this resolution at once.

The resolution was agreed to.

CHURCH ACCOUNTS.

Mr. WILLIAM RUSSELL moved,—"That the clergy of this diocese be requested to lay upon the table of this Synod copies of the accounts passed at last Easter Tuesday's vestry meetings for their respective churches."

Mr. A. STUART said the information was already given in the statistics.

The resolution was not pressed.

PROGRESS OF CHURCH.

Mr. A. STUART (by leave) moved,—"That the Standing Committee be requested to prepare, and lay before the Synod at its next session, a return showing the progress of the Church within this diocese during the last twenty-five years; and that such return embrace, with such other particulars as the Standing Committee deem fit, the following:—The number of churches and school-churches erected. The accommodation thereby afforded. The relative number of clergy ministering in the diocese. The number of students who have passed through Moore College, specifying the number who are at present engaged in this diocese."

The DEAN seconded the resolution, and it was agreed to.

The minutes were read and confirmed.

CLOSING ADDRESS.

The PRESIDENT announced that he had given his consent to the ordinance repealing the third clause of the Superannuation Act. He had that afternoon received a communication from the Governor, acknowledging the receipt of the resolution passed by the Synod, asking that he should withhold his consent to the bill passed by Parliament, entitled the Church and School Lands Dedication Bill, and to reserve it for the Royal consideration. A petition on the same subject had been presented to the Governor; and the bill had been reserved. The next step they must take would be to petition the Crown, through the Governor. He had nothing to say in concluding the Synod, except to express his deep gratitude to the members for their attendance. It had been the fullest Synod that they had had in point of numbers, and the attendance of members had been very steadily kept up, while the subjects that they had been discussing had been of the greatest practical importance—among others, the subject of education, of Sunday schools, and religious instruction in Public schools. And though one resolution was lost which he should have been glad to have seen carried, yet he supposed the spirit which actuated the views and promoters of that resolution remained. Though they did not carry with them before the public the full sanction of the Synod, they were at perfect liberty, of course, to carry their principles into action; and he hoped that they would still continue to receive the support of the gentlemen of the Defence Committee. He had already announced that he would take steps immediately to consult the Standing Committee on the subject which had so recently occupied their attention, and he was quite sure that, as they were all actuated by one and the same motive, namely, to do that which they believed to be the best for all parties, they would come to a happy conclusion.

The Te Deum service having been sung, the Synod adjourned sine die.

SYDNEY NIGHT REFUGE AND REFORMATORY.

The annual meeting of this society was held last night, in the Temperance Hall. Mr. U. W. Carpenter, J.P., presided; and amongst those present were—Rev. E. Robinson, Rev. B. Kenny, Rev. J. J. Glassop, and Mr. D. M'Beath, J.P.

The CHAIRMAN opened the meeting, after singing and prayer, by reading the advertisement convening it, and then remarked that it was evident from the report the society was doing a great deal of good. It was appalling, however, to see that there was so much destitution in a city so largely endowed with so much wealth, and all that conduced to maternal prosperity as Sydney. He had watched the progress of the colony for a period of twenty-five years, and he was satisfied that the greater part of the distress was attributable to alcohol, and he hoped, therefore, that the time was not far distant when the drink traffic would be so restricted as to keep out of temptation those who were its victims. He then called upon the Rev. E. Robinson to read the report.

The Rev. E. ROBINSON said that he rose to read the report with a great deal of regret, on account of the absence of Mr. John Mills, their late secretary, who was now physically in a most deplorable and distressing condition. Had he been present he would have read a report of his own composition. He then read the fifteenth annual report as follows:—

"The committee of the Night Refuge and Reformatory desire to record their thanks to Almighty God that your society has done its timely and benevolent work among their poor fellow-men during another year; and that it has been prosecuted with commendable care, diligence, and success, and on a rather larger scale than formerly. The past year has been especially distinguished by the great International Exhibition, which, from far and near, not only attracted those who are accounted well to do as its visitors, but also not a few others, to the city, of quite another class—the unthrifty, unsettled—in one word, the unfortunate and poor. Such have come here in greater numbers than usual, and often came in the vain hope of bettering their condition in life by the change, yet without any well-founded reasons to justify their anticipations. That such persons should be homeless and destitute will not excite the surprise of the observant and thoughtful. This state of things naturally led to a greater number of earnest applicants for night shelter and refreshment during a portion of the past year. The apartment available for night accommodation has very frequently been fully occupied, and to meet very urgent cases, some men (even beyond its capacity for eligible accommodation), have been from time to time admitted—thus even overcrowding has been tolerated as the lesser evil. The experience of recent years has made it evident that if there was an enlargement of the dormitory space to fully twice that of the present, it would not be too extensive. It is to be recollected that the population of the colony is steadily and rapidly increasing, and that there are clear indications of a considerable increase in the numbers of the abject and forlorn poor. Few, indeed, of the homeless and very needy poor are to be found within the portals of any Christian church, and for the most part appear to pay little regard to either religious duties or privileges, and are often discovered to be practically ignorant of the great and precious truths of the Gospel: to such life must have a new aspect in their evenings at the Refuge, when a city missionary or other Christian friend conducts the brief evening worship—Scripture reading and exposition, devout song, and solemn, earnest prayer, and for themselves; on such occasions considerable interest is often exhibited, and spoken of afterwards. Surely the hope may be cherished that in the great day these efforts among the poor, and for the Saviour's kingdom will be found not to have been made in vain. It may be well to note that the 'Free Sunday Breakfast' for the poor, provides on that morning for those who have passed the night in the Francis-street Refuge, and are there distinguished from many others by their invariable cleanliness, and by their good conduct. The committee have pleasure in testifying to the continued well-conducting of the Refuge by Mrs. Druce; this involves self-denial, patience, and great discretion, and all needful attention has been given heartily and without stint. During the past year the number of night's lodgings given was 10,580, being 540 more than in the preceding year; of breakfasts, 9904, being an increase of 104. The expenditure during the year has had the usual careful supervision; the present state of the finances will appear from the treasurer's balance-sheet. The subscribers would favour the treasurer and committee by, early in the year, forwarding their usual contributions to the treasurer. During the year letters have been received from the recipients of the society's bounty, expressing the gratitude of the writers, yet as they are similar in import, it is intended only to append two of them. Your committee cannot close this report without expressing their sincere regret at the retirement of Mr. John Mills from the office of secretary, which he has long held, after having efficiently discharged the duties of that office, and with great advantage to the institution. They also embrace this opportunity of assuring that gentleman and his family of their sincere and fervent sympathy in the great affliction they are called to endure; they do this in the assurance that rich Divine consolations will be experienced by their dear friend all the remainder of his days, and devoutly commend him to the Lord and Redeemer of all, and to the love of God the Heavenly Father."

Mr. D. M'BEATH, J.P., read the financial statement from which it appeared that the total amount received from subscriptions was, £124 9s. 6d., which with a balance in hand at the end of last year was increased to £141 17s. 3d.; the expenditure had been £127 19s. 5d., leaving a balance in hand at the present time of £13 7s. 10d. He moved the adoption of the report and balance-sheet.

Rev. B. KENNY seconded the resolution, which was put and carried unanimously.

Rev. E. ROBINSON moved,—"That the words following be added to rule 4: 'Yet if there be ordinary business requiring prompt attention, in the event of others being absent, three members of the committee be authorized to dispatch the same;' also, in rule 6 the word 'July' be substituted for the word 'June.'"

Seconded by Mr. JONES, and carried.

Rev. J. J. GLASSOP moved,—"That the following gentlemen be the officers and committee of this society until their successors be appointed, namely:—Mr. Henry Price, hon. treasurer; Mr. John Osborne, hon. secretary; committee, Rev. E. Robinson, Messrs. J. Armstrong, S. Callaghan, J. P., J. Davies, M.L.A., J. S. Jones, J. R. Love, D. M'Beath, J.P., U. W. Carpenter, J.P., H. P. Palser, J.P., and John Woods."

Mr. S. TURNER seconded the motion which was carried.

The meeting then terminated.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

PARIS, MAY 7.

Since my last letter politics in France have been stale, flat, and unprofitable. The Government have been persevering in their anti-clerical measures, and the clericals have been waging war in every shape and form on the Government. The Ultramontane organs have been almost exclusively filled with long letters from the bishops, protesting against the decrees of March 29, which disperse the Jesuits by virtue of some long forgotten laws, nearly a century old, and which were so little supposed to exist that numbers of people refuse to believe that they actually do exist, though in my letter of last month I showed that there could be no doubt on that point. After a short Easter recess, the Chamber and Senate reassembled on the 20th of April. Frenzied as they are anent religious questions, they have, so far, done nothing for the true interests of the country. The debate on the General Tariffs Bill drags its slow length along before empty benches, with no prospect of ever coming to an end, for every clause gives rise to a series of amendments in the interest of some local trade. The only occasion on which the House has been really well attended was last Monday, when a sterile interpellation on the famous decrees of March 29th was under discussion. The author of the interpellation, M. Lamy, one of the youngest and ablest members of the Chamber, belongs to that rare species of French politicians who are at once proved Republicans and practical Catholics. M. Lamy, besides being an elegant and eloquent debater, is also a very good lawyer, and it was on legal grounds that he attacked the decrees against the religious orders. He left politics altogether out of the debate, a circumstance we regret; for though the introduction of politics into the discussion might have caused a "scene" or two in the Chamber, still had he attacked the decrees from a political standpoint he would have rendered a much greater service to the cause of liberty and wise toleration. We think that instead of denying the force of the old laws now applied to the religious orders he would have done better to admit that the Government have, according to existing laws, the legal right to act as they are acting, and the power legally to dissolve unauthorized associations; but to tell them at the same time that by using that right and that power they were adopting a policy which, in the interest of the Republic itself, all enlightened liberals would refuse to support. The debate thus carried on to broad political ground would have been of far greater interest, and much higher importance than a mere legal discussion between M. Lamy and M. Cazot, the Minister of Justice, for that is all the eagerly expected interpellation amounted to. M. Lamy's admirably developed arguments were founded on sophisms. He set out by laying it down that there was no law that could be enforced against religious associations, merely as such. He maintained that the laws of 1792, 1793, Messidor, Year XII., and all other laws against the existence of religious orders had no legal value, either on account of the circumstances under which they were enacted or because they had fallen into disuetude. As for the 20last article of the penal code, which forbids unauthorized associations of more than 20 persons, he asserted that should not be taken into account, because people who live in common by no means infringe on it. If, he said, those individuals, bound to one another by the same rule of life, and by submission to one and the same head, dwell in several houses, they are not therefore associated citizens—they are citizens in juxtaposition. The subtlety of this sophism, on which the entire reasoning of M. Lamy was based, was so evident that the Minister of Justice, who is not so consummate an orator as M. Lamy—far from it—had not the slightest difficulty in exposing it, and utterly destroying the whole edifice of elegant argumentation constructed by his young and brilliant opponent.

M. Cazot makes small account of the elegancies of language or of oratorical precautions. His is the sledge-hammer style of rhetoric; he pounds away, and pushes straight on to the end in view without caring what devastation or discomfort he may cause to others in reaching it. He founds his arguments on the letter of the law, and he combats his adversary with the Code Napoleon in his hand, despising all flowers of rhetoric, and sometimes cruelly ill-treating the rules of ordinary grammar. On the present occasion, however, he had right on his side, and won an easy victory. M. Lamy displayed very great talent in maintaining a thesis that had not a leg to stand on, namely, that religious associations are beyond and above the reach of all laws. It needed no Solomon, Daniel, or Solon to demolish such jurisprudence as that. M. Cazot had but to say, while showing the code, "Here are laws against religious orders; laws that have never been repealed, and which consequently we have the right to enforce. We have enforced them, and who shall blame us?" There can be no doubt that Government by enforcing them have acted legally, whether they have acted wisely is another question.

To judge from the effervescence now reigning in the provinces among the clericals and anti-clericals, it is plain to us that they have acted unwisely. The untimely protestations of the Bishops have stirred the fanaticism of the faithful in its inmost recesses; and the anti-clerical masses are no less excited than their adversaries. We have had a proof of this in the unseasonable visit which M. Jules Ferry, the Minister of Public Instruction, and the author of all this commotion, recently made to Douai, Lille, and other districts in the north of France. Wherever he appeared his arrival was the signal of civil broils between the Ultramontanes and their non-clerical adversaries. These rows were continued by the breaking of clerical establishments, and ended by numerous arrests. And we are only at the beginning of the agitation.

In the Chamber and Senate, the febrile excitement of parties is no less. There were interpellations in both Houses immediately on their reassembling. In the Senate, matters passed off pretty quietly, but in the Chamber, the first interpellation gave rise to such a scene as has been rarely witnessed even there. It was especially remarkable as showing the unfitness of M. Gambetta for the post of President of the Chamber which he persists in holding. He lost all command over himself, and forced the majority to exclude for a fortnight, a member of the Opposition from the Chamber, on a most insufficient pretext. The subject of the interpellation connected by the anti-Republicans, was the administration of M. Albert Grevy, the brother of the President of the Republic, in Algeria, of which colony he is the Governor. The complaints made against him were most unfounded, and he had no difficulty in justifying his administration. Had it not been for the intemperate and imprudent interference of M. Gambetta, the interpellation would have turned to the confusion of its authors. But M. Golelle, an obscure Bonapartist, who was the spokesman of the Opposition, having said that a stain would remain attached to the reputation of "the brother of the President of the Republic," M. Gambetta losing all self-control, and wrongly supposing the honour of the chief of the State was in danger, rashly requested the infliction of the Draconian penalty above mentioned. His prestige has greatly suffered thereby.

From all that precedes, the reader will gather that men's minds in France are in a state of violent fermentation, from the lowest classes to the highest, and it is probable that my ensuing letters will have to tell of far more exciting scenes.

GOVERNMENT TRAMWAYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Presuming it is the desire of the Government to make the tramway business as remunerative as possible, I should be glad to learn why the times of departure from the Redfern Terminus cannot be made to better suit the arrival of trains. I now more especially refer to the train which reaches Redfern at about 6.45 p.m., and being in the habit of coming in frequently at that time, it often (in fact nearly every evening) happens that having alighted from the train, the tramcar is to be seen just gliding out of the Redfern yard, whereas by waiting not more than two minutes the car would often become half-loaded with passengers, instead of as is now the case, proceeding into Sydney empty, and thereby resulting in so much loss of money as well as inconvenience to those who like myself, rely upon being able to use the tramcars. Yours, &c.,

June 29. THOS. MILLER.

BRADLEY, NEWTON, and LAMB desire to draw the attention of architects, builders and contractors, and house proprietors, to their sale of marble urinals, lavatories, patent water closets, and handsome marble mantelpieces, at the Australian Auction Rooms, Spring and O'Connell streets. These are Doulton's exhibits. Inspection invited.—ADV.

NEWS BY THE STEAMER LIGURIA.

We have papers from England by the Orient steamer Liguria to the 14th May, from which the following extracts are taken:—

THE AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN v. ST. LUKE'S CLUB.

The Daily Telegraph, of May 14, reports:—"Yesterday, at 10 minutes past 12, Bannerman and Groube went in, and commenced the first match of the Australian Eleven in England, at the Antelope ground, Southhampton, against sixteen of the St. Luke's Club, aided by G. F. Grace and W. R. Gilbert. The last-named player and Captain Mackinnon started the local bowling, and in his second over the captain got Bannerman caught at slip from a fast-rising ball. Murdoch came in, and with Groube played steady and good cricket until the score was 41, when a fast shooter bowled Groube. Murdoch—who had made one mistake—being missed at slip, was joined by M'Donnell. These two played fast and brilliant, M'Donnell's hitting being hard, clean, and well placed. Cassan, left hand fast, went on for Gilbert, and Grace bowled in place of Mackinnon. At 101, M'Donnell, who just before had been missed from a hard chance at deep mid-on or forward square-leg, was splendidly caught by Captain Wallace at long-on very deep. The young Australian's 38 was a capital innings, and showed him to be a hitter of undoubted promise. Jarvis only made 4, and was bowled by Cassan by a ball which completely beat him. Four for 109. Boyle became Murdoch's partner, and these two were not out when the luncheon interval took place at 2 p.m. Play was resumed at 3 o'clock. Murdoch ought to have been run out, but the wicket-keeper failed to take the ball when it was returned to him. Then three times in quick succession Murdoch hit Gilbert for 4—two cuts and an on drive. More changes of bowling were tried with good result; for Murdoch, when within three of completing his 100, was finally caught in the deep field by Bencroft, the captain of the local team. Murdoch, save only for the chance at slip, had played admirable cricket, his most important hits being three 4's and 18 3's. On Blackham becoming Boyle's partner, the latter made two very big hits off Blundell, one going for 4 and the other right out of the ground for 5. Blackham was caught by the wicket-keeper at 225, and at 228 Boyle was taken at short-leg for 50, an innings in which were several chances, but which, nevertheless, was played in good form, and included the 5, three 4's, and four 3's. Slight and Palmer did nothing, but the last pair, Bonnor and Spofforth, raised the total to 250. The innings was over just before a quarter-past 5. The afternoon was brilliantly fine, and as hot as July—a great contrast to the sort of weather the Australians experienced when they were here before. There was a good company on the ground after lunch, and the day's cricket was thoroughly enjoyed. At 20 minutes to 6 the local team began batting, with Gilbert and Harris, to the bowling of Spofforth and Palmer. Gilbert was bowled by Palmer for 6, the total being 21. Watts came in, and the score was hit up to 43, when he was smartly caught at mid-on by Slight, close to the ground. Stumps were then drawn for the day, two wickets being down, and 43 runs scored—by no means a bad start. The Australians made two mistakes in the field, Bannerman getting under a ball at mid-on, and Boyle failing to get to a short hit. The following was the score:—The Australian Eleven: T. U. Groube, b Mackinnon, 15; A. C. Bannerman, c Gilbert, b Mackinnon, 3; W. L. Murdoch, c Bencraft, b Blundell, 97; P. S. M'Donnell, c Wallace, b Grace, 38; A. H. Jarvis, b Cassan, 4; H. F. Boyle, c Cassan, b Crofton, 50; J. M. Blackham, c Hunt, b Crofton, 8; G. J. Bonnor, b Grace, 20; J. Slight, l b w, b Crofton, 0; G. E. Palmer, c Hunt, b Grace, 3; F. R. Spofforth, not out, 1; byes 3, leg-byes 6, no-balls 1, wides 1, 11—total, 250."

The Evening Standard, of May 14, thus reports the continuation of the game:—"The weather was again beautifully fine when play was resumed to-day at five minutes past 12. The Sixteen, having lost two wickets for 43, continued batting with Harris (not out 15) and Crafton, to the bowling of Boyle and Spofforth. The score was increased to 51, when a well-judged catch at long-off by Groube sent back Crofton. One run was added, and then Harris was clean bowled, for a well-played 22. Captain Wallace was bowled without raising the score, and G. F. Grace filled the vacancy. The wickets continued to fall rapidly, and G. F. Grace could find no one to stop with him. Bencraft, the local captain, was clean bowled by the first ball he received. Duncan Mackinnon and Blundell were quickly disposed of, and when our message left the ground the score was 77 for 11 wickets, Grace being not out 10. Ede stayed with G. F. Grace until the score had reached 86, and was then bowled. Hickman followed, and Grace brought out a cheer, cutting Boyle prettily for 3. A little later Grace made a neat cut for 4 off Boyle, and caused that bowler to give way to Palmer at 98. With 1 run added, Hickman was clean bowled. Both Carrick and Hodgson failed to score. Mr. Grace continued to bat in excellent style, but could get no one to stay for any length of time with him. Cassan came in, and when the luncheon bell rang the score was 112 for 15 wickets, Grace being 41. On resuming play the innings was very quickly finished off for 116, G. F. Grace taking out his bat for a most admirable 45, which included two 4's, three 3's, and four 2's. Spofforth was the most successful bowler, taking nine wickets for 45 runs. Boyle took five wickets for 26, and Palmer three for 37. Being 134 runs behind, the Sixteen had, of course, to follow their innings. At 20 minutes after 3 they sent in Grace and Harris to the bowling of Spofforth and Palmer. Grace commenced hitting freely, cutting Palmer for 4, and driving twice to the on for 3. This caused Boyle to take the ball at 22. With the score unchanged Harris was smartly stumped. Captain Mackinnon then joined Grace, and when this report left the ground (1 o'clock) the score was 30 for one wicket, Grace being not out for 18."

THE FOUNDERING OF THE STEAMSHIP AMERICAN.

The Standard of May 14, publishes the following account of the loss of the steamer American:—"The Balmoral Castle, having on board Mr. Campbell Hepworth, chief officer; Mr. Stevenson, third officer; Dr. E. L. G. Gamble, surgeon; Engineers Gilroy and Curtis; Mrs. Packman, the stewardess; Boatswain Chappel; and 23 men of the crew of the screw steamer American, arrived at Plymouth this evening shortly before 8 o'clock. The chief officer communicated the following statement, which he had prepared with the assistance of his brother officers:—"The foundering of the Union steamship American took place on 23rd April, at 5 a.m., in latitude 1·52 N., 9·50 W., dead reckoning. The main shaft broke, it is supposed, in the pipe. On sounding the wells, which was done immediately, the ship was found to be making water very rapidly in the after-hold and tunnel. An attempt was made by the third engineer to proceed up to the tunnel in the hope of ascertaining the damage, but the rush of water was so great that it was found impossible to do so. The third officer ascertained by going over the stern in a bowline that the propeller was 'drooped' and the rudder-post bent. The Downton portable and the donkey pumps were immediately set at work the passengers volunteering to pump and do their utmost to give assistance in every way. The main engine could not be moved; the rudder also was jammed. The water made so rapidly in the after-hold that the commander gave orders to water and provision the boats, after which the boats were lowered and brought under the lee of the steamer at the commander's request. The passengers then sat down to breakfast in the saloon. At eight o'clock a.m., in spite of all endeavours, there was found to be 15 feet of water in the after-hold. The commander then gave orders for the passengers to leave the vessel, which was accomplished in a quiet, orderly manner. Coals and cargo were then thrown overboard to lighten the ship, and the donkey engine, which for a while had broken down, was again set going; but the water still gained, and the sea having by this time risen, was making a clean breach over the quarter-deck. About half-past 11 all hope of saving the ship having been given up, the commander gave the order to take to the boats, and was himself the last to leave the ship. At 20 minutes past 12 the ship foundered, going down stern foremost. The boats made all sail, and steered for Cape Palmas, distant 210 miles, the commander having previously given the course. A strong breeze from the south by west was blowing, and the sea rising. The latitude of the ship when she foundered was ascertained to be 1 degree 56 minutes north by the meridian altitude obtained from the boats. As the second lifeboat and first and second cutters outsailed the remaining five boats, they shortened sail, and at dusk, the boats being out of sight, hove to that they might come up; but as the other boats did not appear by half-past seven, it was deemed advisable to proceed, the lives of so many women and children being at stake. The three boats kept in company during the night till noon the following day, when the first and second cutters parted company. The second lifeboat was carried on by the strong breeze till the night of the 24th, after which calms, squalls, and a thunder-storm were experienced until the boats were picked up. The first and second cutters saw a brigantine-rigged steamer at daybreak on the 24th, and passed unobserved within three miles of her, although signals were made to attract attention. They made the land at 6 o'clock in the morning, between Grand Testas and Cape Palmas, and steered for it. They were then picked up by the screw steamer Congo, of Glasgow, commanded by Captain Liversedge, about 3 in the afternoon of the same day. On hearing of other boats to the southward, Captain Liversedge immediately placed a look-out at the mast-head, and in about an hour and a half observed the second lifeboat, which he picked up at 6 in the evening, about six miles from Grand Testas. During the night and until 6 o'clock the following morning, Captain Liversedge searched for the remaining boats, and burned night signals every half-hour. It is supposed that the steamer seen on the morning of the 25th by the first and second cutters, and which probably was the screw steamer Coanza, must have picked up the remaining boats, and made search for the second lifeboat and first and second cutters, which would account for her not having been passed by the steamer Congo, as her commander had anticipated. All the boats on leaving the ship were well rigged, efficiently manned, watered, and provisioned, and there is every reason to believe would meet with the same good fortune as the three boats picked up. The coolness and decision displayed by Captain Maclean Waite was incomparable during the sad disaster, and inspired the utmost confidence in passengers and crew."

THE ALBANIANS.

According to the Vienna correspondent of the Daily News, under the date of May 11, the Albanians have held a national Assembly, and are reported to have resolved to adopt offensive measures against the Montenegrins. The League is to prepare an army of 16,000 men and 15 guns. The force will include 4800 deserters from the Turkish army, and it is said that the Porte provides arms and ammunition. Osman Pasha is still at Tuzi, where he is openly engaging the Arnauts. The League has called upon Novi-Bazar and Macedonia to help. Montenegro is said to be treating for an offensive and defensive treaty with Servia, and has sent two delegates to the International Frontier Regulation Commission, which recommences its labours immediately. Thus there are here all the elements of a fresh European imbroglio. The Eastern Question is upon us again in a new form. Another little principality has revolted from its suzerain, and claims the recognition of the Powers. Meanwhile, pressure is being applied to the Porte to compel that dishonest Government to fulfil its treaty obligations towards Montenegro. That, if attempted, will involve fresh fighting, the issue of which it is impossible to foretell. So complete is the distrust of the willingness and ability of Turkey to repossess and hand over the ceded territory to Montenegro, that there are rumours to the effect that the task will be entrusted to one of the Powers. Austria was at first thought of, but her experience in the similar case of Bosnia and Herzegovina indisposed her to entertain the proposal, and since then Italy has been suggested for the undertaking, apparently by Russia. But if Italian troops were once allowed to set foot in Albania, it would be idle to expect them to evacuate the country again. They would be there virtually by the same right as the Austrians in Bosnia and the Herzegovina, and would certainly insist upon remaining as long as the two neighbouring provinces were in Austria's occupation. It is stated by the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph that "the hope of being ultimately called upon to restore order in Albania was at the bottom of the interest manifested by Italy in the Albano-Montenegrin negotiations."

FRESH MEAT FROM AUSTRALIA.

The managers of the Orient line of steamers (Messrs. F. Green and Co., and Messrs. Anderson, Anderson, and Co.), wrote the following letter to the editor of the Times, on May 8th, in reference to the importation of fresh meat from Australia:—"Sir,—The newspapers received by the latest mails from Australia show that much attention is being paid there to the question of the export of fresh meat in a frozen state, but that the development of the trade is arrested by the want of steamships fitted with refrigerating machines for the purpose of conveying the meat home. In these circumstances it may be for the public advantage that it should be generally known that this want will be in a measure met at no distant date. It has been decided to fit refrigerating machines with the least possible delay on board the steamers of the Orient line, and to prepare and set apart space in each steamer for the purpose of carrying fresh meat and other perishable cargo in a frozen condition on freight. The first machine is being constructed, and will be set at work on board a steamer as soon as finished. It is expected that the whole of the steamers of the line will be similarly fitted within the year. The interval will be advantageously spent by meat exporting companies, formed and projected, and by individuals contemplating to engage in the trade, in perfecting their arrangements. These should include provision for collecting, killing, dressing, wrapping, and freezing the meat on shore, so as to secure that it shall be in proper condition for the voyage, and that it shall be free from faults of unwonted form or appearance likely to offend the prejudices of the fastidious home market. The adoption of refrigeration in the Orient line will put it within the power of the meat companies to arrange for the continuous supply of the London market by fortnightly shipments. It will also enable the owners of the steamers to introduce a new variety into the victualling of crews and passengers, and to improve the conditions of life at sea in various other respects."

CHARGE AGAINST MISSIONARIES IN AFRICA.

The London Echo, of 11th May, has the following:—A pamphlet has just been issued, making the most extraordinary charges against certain Presbyterian missionaries in Central Africa, at Blantyre, near Lake Nyassa. The writer, Mr. Andrew Chirnside, F.R.G.S., says that the statements he makes can be attested on oath by eye-witnesses, and that, in point of fact, those immediately concerned never attempted the slightest denial when questioned on the subject by Mr Chirnside himself. According to the pamphlet from which we quote, two men were actually sentenced to death by the missionaries for the supposed murder of a woman. One escaped, but as to the other, eight natives were told off to shoot him. Twice they fired a volley, and then, while he was not yet dead, he was flung into an open grave, and his brains were blown out by a merciful hand. The execution has produced a kind of guerilla warfare between the missionaries and some of the native chiefs. The writer also gives an account of a deep pit sunk in the ground, used as a prison, in which men are kept three or four days together without food or water, and he further gives a horrible story of a negro, who was actually flogged to death for theft. He says:—"After receiving a good deal more than 200 lashes, the three natives took the senseless form of their victim down, and dragging him into the store, chained him to a post, and left him. Half an hour after Bismarck (a negro) came to the whites, and said he thought something was wrong; and on going into the store they saw the mangled corpse of what had been that morning one of God's creatures. Flogging with this whip is an every-day occurrence—three lads in one day getting upwards of 100 lashes; and it is a fact that, after being flogged on several occasions, salt has been rubbed on their bleeding backs." These statements certainly appear incredible, but in the interests of natives and missionaries and of the civilization of Africa, we trust that the Aborigines Protection Society or some other impartial body may make a searching inquiry into their truthfulness.

LONDON CHARTERED BANK OF AUSTRALIA.

At the annual meeting of the proprietors of the London Chartered Bank of Australia, the chairman, in calling attention to the fact that a period of great gloom and depression had passed away, said that the wool clip had been good, and wool itself had experienced an astonishing rise, for it had increased in price no less than 40 per cent. The harvest, although not unusually abundant, had been fair, and while New South Wales would produce more grain than was sufficient for its own consumption, Victoria would export this year 200,000 and South Australia 400,000 tons of wheat. These facts were material evidences of returning prosperity.

THE WEST OF ENGLAND BANK.

A verdict of acquittal terminated the trial of the directors of the West of England Bank. An outline of the history of this peculiarly unfortunate bank may not be uninstructive to many. In 1872 the bank was flourishing; but in order to cover some advances, and obtain a security against losses, the directors thought proper to take over the business of a firm known as Booker and Co. The property thus acquired was valued at half a million sterling. At first the expectations of the directors were realised, and the first year of acquiring the new concern showed a profit of £32,000; but subsequently these gains diminished, and as things went from bad to worse the question arose whether the Booker property should be considered still as a valuable asset of the company, or whether, in consequence of the steady depreciation of the concern, the whole of the matter should be disclosed to the shareholders and the public. Unfortunately, as it turned out, the directors chose the former course. They doubtless hoped that the property might improve, and, however injudicious their choice, there is nothing to suggest that they were actuated by anything in the smallest degree approaching to fraudulent intention. This is the point where the case for the prosecution failed. It may have been wrong in the directors to conceal the true state of things with regard to the waning assets of the bank, but it could not be established that the concealment was practised with any fraudulent motive. The defendants appear to have been mistaken and injudicious, but of all intention to act dishonestly they have been very properly acquitted, a result which the summing up of the learned judge did not a little to secure.

BOMBARDMENT OF AN AFRICAN TOWN.

The African Royal mail steamer Ethopia brings news of a serious disturbance with the natives of Batanga, a town of some importance, situated about eighty miles south of Cameroons. It appears that in May, of last year, these men boarded an English ship lying at anchor off their town, and made a prisoner of a British subject who was trading there. This gentleman was carried into the bush, cruelly treated, half starved and kept a close prisoner there for three months. He managed, however, to escape at last, and arrived at one of the European factories in a very miserable and exhausted state, his feet, particularly, being in a very bad condition, he having had to travel several miles barefooted through a dense forest. He was well taken care of, and a few days later was sufficiently recovered to leave in his own ship for Cameroons. The whole affair was brought under the notice of the late Consul Hopkins, who was understood to have made a representation to her Majesty's Government, but no steps were taken in the matter. A few weeks ago the present acting-consul, Captain Easton, after careful consideration of the case, requested Commodore Richards to take some active measures, and the result was that H.M.S. Boadicea, Firebrand, and Forester were dispatched to the scene of the outrage. These vessels arrived at Batanga on the morning of the 22nd March, and the consul at once tried to open negotiations with the King, with a view to a peaceful settlement. His Majesty, however, sent word that he was ready and willing to fight, and accordingly Captain Easton placed the matter in the hands of the commodore. After time had been given for the removal of the women and children from the town, the guns opened fire on it with shell, and bombarded it for about five hours, after which a party of 200 marines and 50 blue jackets landed and burnt the town. They were repeatedly fired on by the natives, and two of them were killed. As the party were re-embarking to return to the ships a heavy volley was fired into them, and the commodore fell. It was found that a Martini-Henry rifle ball had struck a button on the breast of his coat, carried half of it away, stripped the flesh off the left breast, and lodged itself in the shoulder. He was at once conveyed to the Boadicea and the wound attended to. The consul's action has met with warm approval on the coast, as showing that neither the English Government nor its representatives will allow the traders to be harassed or persecuted.

SACKING A PERUVIAN TOWN.

A letter received in Liverpool from a firm at Arequipa, gives the following particulars of the capture and sack of Mollendo by the Chilians:—"At midday on Monday, March 8, news was received in Mollendo by telegraph that one of the Chilian ironclads had left Yerba Buena with two transports for the north, and at 5 p.m. the Blanco Encalada came in sight, and, passing Mollendo, went into Islay Bay, where the two blockading vessels followed her. That same night the Chilians landed from their transports a force of 2000 men, more or less, in Islay and the inlets of Chiquas and Matarini. They marched the following day on to Mollendo, under the protection of the guns of the Blanco Encalada, O'Higgins, and Covadonga, and, without encountering any opposition from the Peruvians, entered Mollendo, as the small force stationed there—some fifty men of the Guardia Nacional—had retired on Tambo. The Chilian commanders, on taking possession of Mollendo, stated to the consular corps that private property as also that of neutrals would be protected. This promise was not kept in its entirety, as about a third of the town has been burnt, and notably the house of Mr. Woriche, a Spaniard, to which they set fire three times before effecting their object, as the owner, assisted by the foreigners, was able to save it twice. The Chilians have done great damage to the railway stock, having burnt eighty-four cars, and destroyed the offices, workshops, and machine house. Happily there were no engines in Mollendo, otherwise they would have had facility for destroying other parts of the railway. As it is, they have sent troops as far as Eusenada, where, however, but little harm has been done. In Mejia they have burnt several houses. The Custom-house stores in Mollendo were not burnt, but the doors were burst open, and the troops stole what they chose. All houses the owners of which were absent were sacked, even the officers taking part; and in many instances occupied houses were not respected. The church was burnt, and a diamond cross of great value, forming part of the custodia, has been stolen. Women have also been outraged. Most of the women took refuge in the several consulates, where they were safe, though at one time fears were entertained that they also would be burnt. What aggravates the behaviour of the Chilians is that they entered Mollendo without a shot having been fired, and, after restraining their troops for over twenty-four hours, they let them loose to sack and burn a defenceless town. The Chilians embarked on Saturday, the 13th March. Before embarking they set fire to the quay, and destroyed all the lighters and boats; the quay has not been damaged to any extent."

CLOSING OF THE HOTEL CAFES.

Considerable interest was manifested at the Water Police Court, yesterday morning, when the meeting of licensing magistrates, which was adjourned from the previous day, was held for the purpose of considering two applications for the transfer of licenses which had been previously refused.

The Justices present on the Bench were:—Messrs. Reading (chairman), Penfold, Cook, Divson, Carpenter, Gray, Dean, Jenkins, Senior, O'Connor, Palmer, Field, MacLean, Hunt, Hourigan, Hyam, See, Withers, Palser, Taylor, Kethel, Macpherson, and Molineaux.

UNITED SERVICE CLUB HOTEL.

Mr. W. Roberts, as attorney for Frank M'Donald, applied to have the license of the United Service Club Hotel transferred from Charles Cowper, sheriff (who had, by virtue of a writ of fieri facias, sold the right, title, and interest of Francis Lott Flanagan in the hotel to Frank M'Donald), to Frank M'Donald.

Sub-Inspector Anderson, on behalf of the police, opposed the transfer, on the following grounds:—1. That the application was irregular, as the Sale of Liquors Licensing Act of 1862 did not empower anyone to deal with a publican's license except on the death or insolvency of the publican, and in that case the holder of the license, Francis Lott Flanagan, was neither dead nor insolvent: 2. That there was reason to believe that if the transfer were granted to the applicant the house would not be well conducted; 3rd, that at an adjournment of the annual licensing meeting, held at the Water Police Court, on the 23rd of April last, the Justices recommended the Colonial Treasurer not to renew the license of the said Francis Lott Flanagan, who subsequently made an application to transfer his license to Michael Joseph Dillon, to which an objection was lodged on the ground that it was not a bona-fide transaction, and which transfer was refused.

Mr. Roberts pointed out that the objections lodged were perfectly absurd. There were no grounds for such objections, and they should never have been filed. The Sheriff had a perfect right to sell all the goods, chattels, and interest of Flanagan to any person who thought proper to become a purchaser, and moreover it was a violation of all common law rights to suppose that the Sheriff was not competent to do so? It was generally supposed that the common law rights were not interfered with by any legislative enactment except for special reasons, and the common law rights were not touched by the Sale of Liquors Licensing Act, which said that upon the death or insolvency of the holder of any license, his official assignee may carry on the business. The 20th section of the Act upon which the objections appear to have been founded, did not touch this case at all. It merely said that the business might be carried on in the event of the death or insolvency of the licensee, so that the rights of parties might not be interfered with. There was nothing to take away the right of the Sheriff to sell the right and interest of the holder of the license, and he submitted that it would be unjust to deprive the applicant of the rights he had so purchased. He trusted their Worships would allow the case to be dealt with on its merits.

The Chairman said that he was sure the Bench would do nothing but what was strictly just in the case.

Mr. Penfold, and other Justices, expressed a desire that they should proceed with the hearing of the case on its merits, and without regard to any technical objections.

Mr. Roberts submitted that the Bench having decided to proceed with the case, they had thereby overruled the first objection. The second objection was contemplated by the Act, because they could not deal with matters in future, and the third objection only tended to prejudice the minds of the Bench against the applicant.

Mr. Penfold: It serves as a reminder.

Mr. Roberts: The Justices, I am sure, do not require any reminder of this kind. And the matter of the third objection should have been left out of the case, more especially as sub-inspector Anderson, he understood, admitted that this was not an objection in itself. The only portion of the objections lodged, therefore, was the second one, which, as a matter of fact, was no objection at all.

Evidence was then called on behalf of the police.

Constable Sproule having been duly sworn, deposed that the applicant MacDonald had been conducting the house in question since the tenth of the present month. Flanagan had stated to him (Sproule) that if the place was conducted in any other manner than a café he would not be able to take £5 per week. [The witness then gave evidence as to having seen women of loose character going in and out of the hotel.]

To the Bench: I do not know anything of the applicant's character, either good or bad.

Constables Carle and Cross also gave evidence to show that since the 10th of the present month persons of ill-repute had been in the habit of frequenting the house.

Senior-sergeant Lawless stated that when the applicant kept the Derby Hotel, in Regent-street, he was fined on two occasions for Sunday trading.

Mr. Roberts handed in a certificate as to the respectable character of the applicant.

This being the case,

Mr. Roberts said that the applicant could not be held responsible for what had taken place on the premises, inasmuch as he was not in legal possession, and was therefore powerless to prevent any improper conduct, such as had been alleged to have taken place in the hotel.

Frank Macdonald, the applicant, who was then placed in the box by Mr. Roberts, stated that he had been in charge of the United Service Club Hotel for about twenty days. He told the women who frequented the house that he would not allow disorderly conduct upon the premises.

Mr. Ashdown, solicitor, stated that he had known the applicant professionally for about seven months, and he could say that Macdonald was a man of respectability and a fit person to hold a publican's licence.

Mr. O'Connor moved that the transfer of the licence to Frank M'Donald should be granted.

Mr. HYAM seconded the proposition.

On being put to the vote, the question was decided in the negative—ayes, 7; noes, 11.

The application was accordingly refused.

MILL HOTEL, KING-STREET.

Patrick Kelly applied to have the license of the Mill Hotel, King-street, transferred to Michael Mulry. Mr. Coonan appeared in support of the application, and Mr. Hourigan watched the case for Mulry.

Sub-inspector Anderson objected to the transfer on the ground that there was reason to believe that the transaction was not a bona-fide one, and that the licence was not intended for the transferree, but for the said Patrick Kelly. It was further pointed out by the police that at an adjournment of the annual licensing meeting in April last the Justices recommended the Colonial Treasurer not to renew the licence of Patrick Kelly, and that since that time three applications for the transfer of the licence had been refused.

Mr. Coonan, in the witness box, sought to show that the transaction was a perfectly bona-fide one. He produced an extension of a lease of the property, signed by the Hon. George Thornton. Mr. Thornton agreed to give Kelly an extension of his lease for seven years, in consideration of certain improvements being effected on the premises. Since the extension of the lease was effected, Kelly's license had been refused; but Mr. Thornton said he would not go back on his promise if Kelly found a bona-fide purchaser for the property. Mulry accordingly agreed to purchase the hotel, and he Mr. Coonan received instructions to prepare an extension of the lease. Kelly had surrendered the old lease, and a fresh lease had been issued. Mulry had paid a deposit on the amount of the purchase-money.

Michael Mulry, the transferee gave evidence that he had been carrying on business in this city as a licensed victualler for the past thirteen or fourteen years. The transaction between Kelly and himself was a bona-fide one. He had paid a deposit of £10 on the purchase money, which was £200.

To Mr. Penfold: The transaction was only conditional up to the present time. The lease would be rendered invalid, so far as he was concerned, if the transfer were not granted.

Mulry subsequently stated in evidence that he intended to carry on the business on his own account.

Mr. Hourigan, sen., moved that the transfer of Kelly's license to Mulry should be granted. He had known Mulry many years as a highly respectable man.

Mr. Stanley seconded the motion, and in doing so he felt perfectly convinced that this was a bonâ-fide transaction in every way.

The question on being put to the vote was decided in the negative by 10 votes to 8. The transfer of the licence was therefore refused.

In addition to the two above hotels, the following, the licenses of which have been refused, were also under orders to close after last night, namely:—The Shakespeare Hotel, Pitt-street; Prince Alfred Hotel, Pitt-street; Prince Imperial Hotel, King-street; Columbia Hotel, Castlereagh-street; Theatre Royal Hotel, Castlereagh-street; United Service Club Hotel, Castlereagh-street; Shamrock Hotel, Sussex-street; Mill Hotel, King-street.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

Yesterday, the bench on the Criminal side was occupied by Messrs. Renwick, Booth, Sladen, and Henderson; and on the Summons side by Messrs. Chapman, Hardie, Guy, and M'Beath.

James Smith was summarily convicted of having stolen a table-cover, of the value of 4s., the property of Joseph Brown, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned one month.

In the Summons Court, Michael Grady appeared to answer an information by Samuel Houghton, a constable of the police force, which alleged that on the 22nd June one Edward Wicks was injured by reason of the furious driving of the defendant. Edward Wicks, of King-street, Sydney, deposed that, on the afternoon of the 22nd June, he was on Newtown Road, returning home from Sandringham in a buggy, Messrs. Rose and Murray being with him; when near the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, something collided with and turned over his buggy, he falling underneath it; when he was extricated from his position he felt giddy and sick, and was much shaken; he was conveyed to a house near by, where he lay until he recovered himself, and was afterwards attended by Dr. Egan. By Mr. Coonan, for the defendant: He was driving easily, about seven or eight miles an hour; he had no lights; it was not dark; there was plenty of room on the road for three vehicles to pass. James Harvey, an inspector in the employ of the Gas Company, deposed that on the 22nd June he saw the defendant on the Newtown Road, driving a three-horse omnibus conveying passengers, and a buggy in which were three gentlemen; another omnibus was a little ahead of that driven by defendant, and both were going as fast as they could; the buggy was in advance of the omnibuses proceeding in the same direction, and on the near side of the the road; defendant's omnibus came in contact with the buggy, causing it to turn over upon its occupants; the last witness was one of the three occupants of the buggy; witness rode into Sydney and gave information of what had occurred to constable Houghton, who, on defendant's arrival, took him into custody. Elizabeth Hunt, a passenger in the omnibus driven by the defendant, deposed that defendant was racing against another omnibus until he came into collision with a buggy, capsizing upon the occupants; she felt the collision, which gave her a shaking and made her unwell for some days afterwards. Defendant was committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions, being allowed bail for his appearance. On the prosecution of inspector Outley, Frederick Kennecki was fined 40s. for allowing two calves to remain in the pens at the Glebe Abattoirs, for a longer period than forty-eight hours. Sarah Arnold was fined 20s., with the addition of 40s. costs and 7s. court fees, for using words calculated to incite Mary Jane Guilfoyle to commit a breach of the peace; and in Ali Bassin v. Cotta, a like offence, the defendant was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s., and 4s. 10d. for court fees. Spence v. Turner, and Morrison v. Blackburn, were proceedings for the recovery of premises from over holding tenants, and in each adjacent to Balmain.

That Beautiful Suburb
WEST CALLEN PARK,

SATURDAY, 3rd JULY,
at 3 p.m.
by
MILLS and PILE,
100 CHOICE BUILDING SITES
fronting Mary-street,
Morton-street,
Commercial Road,
John-street,
Wharf-street,
and the Navigable Waters of Long Cove.

These Choice BUILDING SITES are splendidly situated, and command unequalled views over FIVE DOCK, and the surrounding country, and close to the WATERS of LONG COVE.

The OMNIBUS from SYDNEY stops a short distance from the Property, and the PETERSHAM WAGGONETTE plies close to the Land. A new WHARF has been erected in CHURCH-STREET.

Though so close to SYDNEY, WESTERN CALLEN PARK is in some measure a NEW DISTRICT, no sales having been held there before, but it is certain to become a most IMPORTANT PLACE in the course of a few years, as being close to PETERSHAM and the head of the navigation of LONG COVE, all TIMBER, COAL, and COUNTRY PRODUCE for the inland suburbs will be landed there, and it will be an important business place.

MR. BLAXLAND'S MEDALS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I should not have taken any public notice of Mr. Blaxland's ill-tempered advertisement, reflecting on myself, had he not repeated it after having been assured that the missing medals should be replaced without cost to him or to the Commission.

The Society of Arts doubtless retains the dies of all the medals it has issued, and those given to Mr. Blaxland's father can be restruck at the expense of those desiring it.

The only carelessness of which the Secretary was guilty, consisted in his not having insisted on Mr. Blaxland removing the medals when he did not provide a secure case for their display in the Garden Palace.

The medals remained safely in a drawer for nearly eight months, with a beautiful miniature painting worth more than $100, and two bronze medals, but Mr. Blaxland's only were abstracted, presumably because they were made of a convertible metal.

Everything has been done by the detective police for the recovery of the medals, and the terms of the advertisements, to which Mr. Blaxland objects, were suggested by their experience in such matters.

AUGUSTUS MORRIS.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
A WONDERFUL TESTIMONIAL.
"Fleming's Hotel, Halfmoon-street, W.
"Gentlemen,—It is now exactly eight months since I had the good fortune to try one of your STOMACH and LIVER PADS. At that time—and, indeed, for many years at close intervals—I had been a sufferer from indigestion, until at last I was constantly claiming the assistance of the medical man or the chemist's shop, and was told it would end in congestion of the liver or jaundice. But from May 1 last, when I first applied one of your Pads, I have not taken so much as a sedlitz powder, and have enjoyed perfect health. I look upon its effect as so wonderful in my case, that if your charge was £50 instead of 15s, I should, to save my life, feel bound to have one by me. Its effect has been equally marvellous in the case of my porter, a young, strong man, who gave up his situation in despair last June from stomach and liver being wrong, told by his medical man that he was incurable. On leaving me for the country he took with him one of your Pads, and in three days wrote to say that he was all right. He is still with me, and looks on the pad as not only having saved his situation, but, he believes, his life. Its effect has been equally wonderful in the case of my niece, a young married woman, said by her medical man (and believed by her) to be in a very bad way, near congestion of the liver. Since using the Pad she enjoys perfect health—weakness, sickness, and fainting fits all gone. Indeed, after my experience, it seems to me little short of wholesale murder that the Pad is not in general use in all our large hospitals.—With grateful thanks, I remain, Gentlemen, your obedient servant, ROBERT FLEMING."
